Sustainable Neighbourhoods in Australia Raymond Charles Rauscher, Salim Momtaz, 2015-04-21 This book examines the planning and implementation of policies to create sustainable neighborhoods using as a case study the City of Sydney. The authors ask whether many past planning and development practices were appropriate to the ways that communities then functioned and what lessons we have learned. The aim is to illustrate the many variations within a city and from neighborhood to neighborhood regarding renewal, rehabilitation, redevelopment, replacement, and new development. Case study examples of nine City of Sydney neighborhoods note the different histories of planning and development in each. Features of the studies include literature searches, field work with photography and analysis. The authors propose a set of sustainability principles which incorporate elements of the twenty-seven principles of the 1992 Rio Declaration on Environment and Development. Part One explores sustainable urban planning and the importance of planning tools that enable best planning outcomes for communities and investors. Common factors in the nine case study neighborhoods are renewal, redevelopment, and development pressures affecting Sydney from the 1970s to 2014. Also discussed are the differing circumstances of planning faced by authorities, developers, and communities in each of the study areas. Part Two of the book is focused on the case study areas in City of Sydney: East area, Woolloomooloo and Kings Cross. Part Three covers case study areas in Sydney's Inner South area: Chippendale, Redfern, and Waterloo District. Part Four surveys the Inner West suburb of Erskineville. Part Five looks at the City West area including the Haymarket District and the Pyrmont and Ultimo District. Part Six concentrates on the North West area suburb of Glebe. Part Seven of the book looks at the growth area of South Sydney District which includes the suburbs of Beaconsfield, Zetland, and the new localities of Victoria Park and Green Square. The authors recount lessons learned and outline directions of planning for sustainable neighborhoods. Finally, the authors challenge readers to apply the lessons of these case studies to further advances in sustainable urban planning.

Sydney's Food Landscapes Joshua Zeunert, Alys Daroy, 2025-06-20 The story of Sydney's metropolitan food landscapes is one of dramatic transformations of First Nations land amidst jostles for power and wealth. This book unearths Sydney's lost commercial agriculture since colonisation in 1788 to assess its fragile food futures. Richly illustrated, 270 images are encapsulated within 110 figures including an array of original metropolitan scale mappings. Discussion traverses the city's diverse cultural influences from Indigenous land management to British pastoralism, Chinese cultivation of Sydney's backyard vegetable garden, and southern European farming spawning billion-dollar empires. The region has further been shaped by a vast array of cultural and ideological factors and material practices with relevance to planning, policy, ethics, geography, heritage, art, design, and technology. This book is the first to bring Sydney's disparate post-colonial food histories together in one volume to explore the dynamics and tensions between urban growth and food production. The relevance of Sydney's food landscapes therefore extends far wider than the city itself with implications for countless regions worldwide in a time of increasing climate and

Energy Research Abstracts, 1982 Anthropogenic Impacts on the Microbial Ecology and Function of Aquatic Environments Maurizio Labbate, Justin R. Seymour, Federico Lauro, Mark V. Brown, 2016-09-06 Aquatic ecosystems are currently experiencing unprecedented levels of impact from human activities including over exploitation of resources habitat destruction pollution and the influence of climate change The impacts of these activities on the microbial ecology of aquatic environments are only now beginning to be defined One of the many implications of environmental degradation and climate change is the geographical expansion of disease causing microbes such as those from the Vibrio genus Elevating sea surface temperatures correlate with increasing Vibrio numbers and disease in marine animals e g corals and humans Contamination of aquatic environments with heavy metals and other pollutants affects microbial ecology with downstream effects on biogeochemical cycles and nutrient turnover Also of importance is the pollution of aquatic environments with antibiotics resistance genes and the mobile genetic elements that house resistance genes from human and animal waste Such contaminated environments act as a source of resistance genes long after an antibiotic has ceased being used in the community Environments contaminated with mobile genetic elements that are adapted to human commensals and pathogens function to capture new resistance genes for potential reintroduction back into clinical environments This research topic encompasses these diverse topics and describes the effects of human activity on the microbial ecology and function in aquatic environments and describes methods of restoration and for modelling disturbances
