Reanalysis in Sentence Processing J. Fodor, Fernanda Ferreira, 2013-03-14 The topic addressed in this volume lies within the study of sentence processing which is one of the major divisions of psycholinguistics The goal has been to understand the structure and functioning of the mental mechanisms involved in sentence comprehension Most of the experimental and theoretical work during the last twenty or thirty years has focused on first pass parsing the process of assigning structure to a sentence as its words are encountered one at a time from left to right One important guiding idea has been to delineate the processing mechanisms by studying where they fail For this purpose we identify types of sentences which perceivers have trouble assigning structure to An important class of perceptually difficult sentences are those which contain temporary ambiguities Since the parsing mechanism cannot tell what the intended structure is it may make an incorrect guess Then later on in the sentence the structure assignment process breaks down because the later words do not fit with the incorrect structural analysis This is called a garden path situation When it occurs the parsing mechanism must somehow correct itself and find a different analysis which is compatible with the incoming words This reanalysis process is the subject of the research reported here Case and Linking in Language Comprehension Markus Bader, Josef Bayer, 2006-05-09 The German language due to its verb final nature relatively free order of constituents and morphological Case system poses challenges for models of human syntactic processing which have mainly been developed on the basis of head initial languages with little or no morphological Case The verb final order means that the parser has to make predictions about the input before receiving the verb What are these predictions What happens when the predictions turn out to be wrong Furthermore the German morphological Case system contains ambiguities How are these ambiguities resolved under the normal time pressure in comprehension Based on theoretical as well as experimental work the present monograph develops a detailed account of the processing steps that underly language comprehension At its core is a model of linking noun phrases to arguments of the verb in the developing phrase structure and checking the result with respect to features such as person number and Case This volume contains detailed introductions to human syntactic processing as well as to German syntax which will be helpful especially for readers less familiar with psycholinguistics and with Germanic

The Semantics of Polysemy Nick Riemer, 2008-08-22 This book addressed primarily to students and researchers in semantics cognitive linguistics English and Australian languages is a comparative study of the polysemy patterns displayed by percussion impact hitting verbs in English and Warlpiri Pama Nyungan Central Australia The opening chapters develop a novel theoretical orientation for the study of polysemy via a close examination of two theoretical traditions under the broader cognitivist umbrella Langackerian and Lakovian Cognitive Semantics and Wierzbickian Natural Semantic Metalanguage Arguments are offered which problematize attempts in these traditions to ground the analysis of meaning either in cognitive or neurological reality or in the existence of universal synonymy relations within the lexicon Instead an interpretative rather than a scientific construal of linguistic theorizing is sketched in the context of a close examination of certain key issues in the contemporary study of polysemy such as sense individuation the role of reference in linguistic categorization and the demarcation between metaphor and metonymy The later chapters present a detailed typology of the polysemous senses of English and Warlpiri percussion impact or P I verbs based on a diachronically deep corpus of dictionary citations from Middle to contemporary English and on a large corpus of Warlpiri citations Limited to the operations of metaphor and of three categories of metonymy this typology posits just four types of basic relation between extended and core meanings As a result the phenomenon of polysemy and semantic extension emerges as amenable to strikingly concise description

Verbal Projections Hero Janßen, 2011-04-20 This collection of articles examines lexical and grammatical aspects of verbal elements and phrases in the context of recent generative research General questions concern definitions of grammatical categories classifications of auxiliaries and particles as functional categories and problems of economy Lexical matters range from affixation and category change participles gerunds to semantic representations of specific verb classes possessive phrasal and intransitive verbs The syntactic analyses focus on positional arrangements of aspectual and verbal units V2 Verb Raising The data are mainly drawn from English perspectives on other Germanic languages are included

Knowledge and Language E. Reuland, W. Abraham, 2012-12-06 1 BACKGROUND This volume is one of three which emerged from the Conference on Knowledge and Language held from May 21 May 25 1989 at the occasion of the 37 5th anniversary of the University of Groningen Studying the relation between knowledge and language one may distinguish two different lines of inquiry one focussing on language as a body of knowledge the other on language as a vehicle of knowledge Approaching language as a body of knowledge one faces questions concerning its structure and the relation with other types of knowledge One will ask then how language is acquired and to what extent the acquisition of language and the structure of the language faculty model relevant aspects of other cognitive capacities If language is approached as a vehicle for knowledge the question comes up what enables linguistic entities to represent facts about the world To what extent does this reply on conventional aspects of meanings Is it possible for language when used non conventionally as in metaphors to convey intersubjective knowledge If so and it does seem to be the case one may wonder what makes this possible The aim of this conference was to investigate the role of conceptual structure in cognitive processes exploring it from the perspectives of philosophy of language linguistics political philosophy psychology literary theory aesthetics and philosophy of science The themes of these three volumes reflect the themes of the conference

Psychology of Learning and Motivation ,1991-12-02 Psychology of Learning and Motivation Psycholinguistics Gerry T. M. Altmann,2002

Perspectives on Sentence Processing Charles Clifton, Jr.,Lyn Frazier,Keith Rayner,Charles Clifton,2015-12-22 One of the liveliest forums for sharing psychological linguistic philosophical and computer science perspectives on psycholinguistics has been the annual meeting of the CUNY Sentence Processing Conference Documenting the state of the art in several important approaches to sentence processing this volume consists of selected papers that had been presented at the Sixth CUNY Conference The editors not only present the main themes that ran through the conference but also honor the breadth of the presentations from disciplines including linguistics experimental psychology and computer science The variety of sentence processing topics examined includes how evoked brain potentials reflect sentence comprehension how auditory words are processed how various sources of grammatical and nongrammatical information are coordinated and used how sentence processing and language acquisition might be related This distinctive volume not only presents the most exciting current work in sentence processing but also places this research into the broader context of theorizing about it

Annual Workshop on Formal Approaches to Slavic Linguistics Jindřich Toman,1996 The Architecture of the Language Faculty Ray Jackendoff,1997 Ray Jackendoff steps back to survey the broader theoretical landscape in linguistics in an attempt to identify some of the sources of the widely perceived malaise with respect to much current theorizing Over the past twenty five years Ray Jackendoff has investigated many complex issues in syntax semantics and the relation of language to other cognitive domains He steps back in this new book to survey the broader theoretical landscape in linguistics in an attempt to identify some of the sources of the widely perceived malaise with respect to much current theorizing Starting from the Minimalist necessity for interfaces of the grammar with sound meaning and the lexicon Jackendoff examines many standard assumptions of generative grammar that in retrospect may be seen as the product of historical accident He then develops alternatives more congenial to contemporary understanding of linguistic phenomena The Architecture of the Language Faculty seeks to situate the language capacity in a more general theory of mental representations and to connect the theory of grammar with processing To this end Jackendoff works out an architecture that generates multiple co constraining structures and he embeds this proposal in a version of the modularity hypothesis called Representational Modularity Jackendoff carefully articulates the nature of lexical insertion and the content of lexical entries including idioms and productive affixes The resulting organization of the grammar is compatible with many different technical realizations which he shows can be instantiated in terms of a variety of current theoretical frameworks Linguistic Inquiry Monograph No 28

Autolexical Theory Eric Schiller,Elisa Steinberg,Barbara Need,2011-06-24 TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS is a series of books that open new perspectives in our understanding of language The series publishes state of the art work on core areas of linguistics across theoretical frameworks as well as studies that provide new insights by building bridges to neighbouring fields such as neuroscience and cognitive science TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS considers itself a forum for cutting edge research based on solid empirical data on language in its various manifestations including sign languages It regards linguistic variation in its synchronic and diachronic dimensions as well as in its social contexts as important sources of insight for a better understanding of the design of linguistic systems and the ecology and evolution of language TRENDS IN LINGUISTICS publishes monographs and outstanding dissertations as well as edited volumes which provide the opportunity to address controversial topics from different empirical and theoretical viewpoints High quality standards are ensured through anonymous reviewing

Heterogeneity in Word-formation Patterns Susanne Muehleisen, 2010 Postulated word formation rules often exclude formations that can nevertheless be found in actual usage This book presents an in depth investigation of a highly heterogeneous word formation pattern in English the formation of nouns by suffixation with ee Rather than relying on a single semantic or syntactic framework for analysis the study combines diachronic cognitive and language contact perspectives in order to explain the diversity in the formation and establishment of ee words It also seeks to challenge previous measurements of productivity and proposes a new way to investigate the relationship between actual and possible words By making use of the largest and most up to date electronic corpus the World Wide Web as a data source this research adds substantially to the number of attested ee words It furthermore analyses this word formation pattern in different varieties of English British vs American English Australian English Due to the multiplicity of approaches and analyses it offers the study is suitable for courses in English word formation lexicology corpus linguistics and historical linguistics
