Wildman, 2003-08-29 Contributors to this volume explore the dynamics of new communications technologies and public policy from TPRC 2002 The contributors to this volume examine issues raised by the intersection of new communications technologies and public policy in this post boom post bust era Originally presented at the 30th Research Conference on Communication Information and Internet Policy TPRC 2002 traditionally a showcase for the best academic research on this topic their work combines hard data and deep analysis to explore the dynamic interplay between technological development and society The chapters in the first section consider the ways society conceptualizes new information technologies and their implications for law and policy examining the common metaphor of cyberspace as place alternative definitions of the Internet the concept of a namespace and measures of diffusion The chapters in the second section discuss how technological change may force the rethinking of legal rights topics considered include spectrum rights intellectual property copyright and paracopyright and the abridgement of constitutional rights by commercial rights in ISP rules Chapters in the third and final section examine the constant adjustment and reinterpretation of regulations in response to technological change considering among other subjects liability regimes for common carriers and the 1996 detariffing rule privacy and enhanced 911 and the residual effect of state ownership on privatized telecommunication carriers The policy implications of Rethinking Rights and Regulations are clear major institutional changes may be the necessary response to major advances in telecommunications technology Intellectual Property Law and History Steven Wilf, 2017-07-05 Intellectual property has become a dominant feature of our knowledge based economy in recent years but how has property rights in intangible items developed This book brings together for the first time exemplary scholarship with diverse approaches to the history of United States intellectual property protection including trade secrets trademark copyright and patent law These articles written by leading experts in the field and often challenging conventional narratives underscore the importance of historical perspectives for understanding how an extensive evolving framework for the regulation of knowledge emerged in the modern period By tracing intellectual property from an historical perspective not merely providing justifications in philosophy or economics in the abstract this book draws upon the past to address contemporary debates over such varied topics as access to knowledge policing copyright infringement whether employees should own the products of their minds the role of national borders in an age of digital information and the very future of intellectual property as stakeholders and consumers contest the extent of its legal protection Searching the Law, 3d Edition Frank Bae,Edward Bander,Francis Doyle,Joel Fishman,Paul Richert,2021-12-13 Legal Issues Relating to Free and Open Source Software Graham Bassett,2003 Examines the problems of asserting intellectual property rights in the field of Information Technology as it affects software programs and the public domain and the rights of open access such as the Linux operating system The issues featured in this volume are directly relevant to all users and interested parties

Regulating the Global Information Society Christopher Marsden,2005-07-27 An outstanding line up of contributors explore the regulation of the internet from an interdisciplinary perspective In depth coverage of this controversial area such as international political economy law politics economics sociology and internet regulation Regulating the Global Information Society covers the differences between both US and UK approaches to regulation and establishes where policy is being made that will influence the future direction of the global information society from commercial democratic and middle ground perspectives A Socio-Legal Theory of Money for the Digital Commercial Society Israel Cedillo Lazcano,2024-02-22 This book poses the question do we need a new body of regulations and the constitution of new regulatory agents to face the evolution of money in the Fourth Industrial Revolution After the Global Financial Crisis and the subsequent introduction of Distributed Ledger Technologies in monetary matters multiple opinions claim that we are in the middle of a financial revolution that will eliminate the need for central banks and other financial institutions to form bonds of trust on our behalf In contrast to these arguments this book argues that we are not witnessing a revolutionary expression but an evolutionary one that we can trace back to the very origin of money Accordingly the book provides academics regulators and policy makers with a multidisciplinary analysis that includes elements such as the relevance of intellectual property rights which are disregarded in the legal analysis of money Furthermore the book proposes the idea that traditional analyses on the exercise of the lex monetariae ignore the role of inside monies and technological infrastructures developed and supported by the private sector as exemplified in the evolution of the cryptoassets market and in cases such as Banco de Portugal v Waterlow Sons The book puts forward a proposal for the design and regulation of new payment systems and invites the reader to look beyond the dissemination of individual Distributed Ledger Technologies such as Bitcoin The Patent Crisis and How the Courts Can Solve It Dan L. Burk,Mark A. Lemley,2009-08-01 Patent law is crucial to encourage technological innovation But as the patent system currently stands diverse industries from pharmaceuticals to software to semiconductors are all governed by the same rules even though they innovate very differently The result is a crisis in the patent system where patents calibrated to the needs of prescription drugs wreak havoc on information technologies and vice versa According to Dan L Burk and Mark A Lemley in The Patent Crisis and How the Courts Can Solve It courts should use the tools the patent system already gives them to treat patents in different industries differently Industry tailoring is the only way to provide an appropriate level of incentive for each industry Burk and Lemley illustrate the barriers to innovation created by the catch all standards in the current system Legal tools already present in the patent statute they contend offer a solution courts can tailor patent law through interpretations and applications to suit the needs of various types of businesses The Patent Crisis and How the Courts Can Solve It will be essential reading for those seeking to understand the nexus of economics business and law in the twenty first century
