Civil-Military Relations in Post-Communist Europe Timothy Edmunds, Andrew Cottey, Anthony Forster, 2013-10-18 Fifteen years after the fall of communism we are able to appraise the results of the multi-faceted postcommunist transition in Central and Eastern Europe with authority. This volume specifically addresses the fascinating area of Civil Military relations throughout this transitional period. The countries of the region inherited a onerous legacy in this area: their armed forces were part of the communist party state system and most were oriented towards Cold War missions; they were large in size and supported by high levels of defence spending and they were based on universal male conscription. Central and eastern European states have thus faced a three-fold civil military reform challenge: establishing democratic and civilian control over their armed forces; implementing organisational reform to meet the security and foreign policy demands of the new era; and redefining military bases for legitimacy in society. This volume assesses the experiences of Poland, Hungary, Latvia, Romania, Croatia, Serbia, Montenegro, Ukraine and Russia in these areas. Collectively, these countries illustrate the way in which the interaction of broadly similar postcommunist challenges and distinct national contexts have combined to produce a wide variety of different patterns of civil military relations. This book was previously published as a special issue of European Security. Security sector reform in transforming societies Timothy Edmunds, 2018-07-30 This book is about the relationship between societies and their security forces at times of great political and societal change. It uses the experiences of Croatia, Serbia and Montenegro to examine the control, management and reform of armed forces, police and intelligence agencies in the aftermath of conflict and authoritarianism. The book assesses the theory and practice of security sector reform programmes in the context of Europe and the Western Balkans, the relationship between security sector reform and normative international policy more generally, and the broader dynamics of post-conflict and post-authoritarian transformation. In so doing, it addresses two underlying questions: First, how and in what ways does reform in the security sector interrelate with processes of domestic political and societal transformation, particularly democratisation? Second, how and in what ways do these processes relate and respond to internationally driven efforts to promote a particular type of security sector reform as a component of wider peacebuilding and democracy promotion strategies? Defence Reform in

Croatia and Serbia--Montenegro Timothy Edmunds,2013-09-13 This book examines defence reform in Croatia and Serbia Montenegro since 2000 focussing particularly on the institution and consolidation of democratic and civilian control of the armed forces the reform of conflict era forces structures and the influence of the West including defence assistance and political conditionality

Breaking Ranks Michael Martin,2016-10-06 In the late 1980s the army crisis was dominating headlines in Ireland Complaints of poor pay low morale and unsatisfactory conditions for those serving in the Defence Forces were growing louder against the background of a government accused of being indifferent and an army hierarchy accused of being incapable From amidst the turmoil a group of women stepped up to pursue the rights of their men Political crisis and a general election followed but a commission established to examine the Defence Forces ignored the call for soldiers to acquire their own representative body This book reveals for the first time the deep seated philosophies tensions and reservations between Ireland s military and its government from the foundation of the State to the present day It explores in detail the events that led to the successful pursuit of the democratic right of association for members of the armed forces in Ireland It articulates the concept of the citizen in uniform and the special relationship between members of the armed forces and society This is the story of the breaking of ranks
