How to create a field of listening The Learning Community Mary Richardson Boo, Larry E. Decker, 1985 Developing a Learning Community Ghinwa Itani Malas, 2009 The idea that schools functioning as learning communities LC foster high student achievement and promote teacher learning and collaboration is well documented in educational literature Little research however has been done to investigate the actual development of a LC in terms of how it is perceived and put into practice by teachers In addition no research has been found that examined teachers perspectives early in the process of establishing a LC The current case study aims at investigating the elements that make a new school Morning Sunshine Learning Community MSLC an emergent learning community and more specifically how teachers perceive it in that regard The case study focuses on teachers perceptions of a the characteristics of learning community that MSLC has b the conditions or situations that are impacting their learning within this learning community c how their interactions with all the members in the learning community are contributing to their personal and or professional growth and d their perceived challenges to the establishment of a learning community The study co includes with recommendations to improve the ongoing process of building the learning community according to the findings grounded in teachers experiences and practices taking into account the researcher s viewpoint as a participant observer Data were collected from the analysis of school documents and media found on the school website the researcher s personal journal as the professional development liaison teachers questionnaires on their professional development background individual semi structured interviews with teachers and the reviews of teachers professional development files A constant comparative interpretational and reflective approach to data analysis was used whereby constructs themes and patterns relating to the beliefs attitudes and conditions that promote learning communities were identified Results show that teachers mainly focused on two of the four elements of LC collaboration and continuous professional development They did not seem to be explicitly aware of the importance of focusing on high student achievement and how leadership affects the school dynamics However it is important to say that collaboration and professional development are in fact at the core of the learning community concept and were well understood and internalized by teachers Learning Communities In Practice Anastasia Samaras, Anne R. Freese, Clare Kosnik, Clive Beck, 2008-10-26 Most would agree that a learning community of practice cultivates social and intellectual development in educational settings but what are the other benefits and what does a learning community actually look like in practice This book explores such questions as Are learning communities essential in education How are they designed and developed What difference do they make in learning The book contains contributions of educators who share their research and practice in designing and implementing learning communities in school university and professional network settings It presents their experiences and the how to of these educators who are passionate about building and sustaining learning communities to make a real difference for students teachers faculty and communities Combining scholarly and practitioner research the book offers practical information to teachers school and university administrators teacher educators and community educators
