his children and makes provision for their future by leaving the interest of a sum of 4000 to their mother for her life and at her death to be divided in equal proportions among the children In the same will he recommends that his eldest son John should enter the naval service stating his conviction that it was the most promising that a young man in his son's circumstances could choose but adding an earnest desire that his inclinations might not be forced About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

1854 My dear Lord Raglan So far from stepping beyond your duty in allowing me to read the enclosed able report you appear to me to have executed your duty as you always do in an exemplary manner It would be most unfair that the British Admiral should not have the advantage of the opinion of one of our most distinguished scientific officers so far as imperfect information has allowed him the means of forming a judgment I would suggest that Colonel Vicars should take with him a copy of Sir John Burgoyne s report and that he should have permission to show it confidentially to Admiral Dundas I hope that you will concur in this suggestion If you do no time should be lost in sending a copy to Colonel Vicars for he leaves London to morrow morning and will embark at Portsmouth in the afternoon I wish also that you would have the kindness to send me another copy of this same report for my own use It may be very desirable that the Cabinet should see and well consider it I am any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
