The Paradise Institute:

The Paradise Institute Janet Cardiff, 2001 Artists Cardiff and Miller weave numerous strands of visual and textual dialogue in this gripping catalog created to accompany their acclaimed miniature cinema installation The Paradise Institute First shown in the Canadian Pavilion at the 49th Venice Biennale this new genre cinema installation recreates the actual experience had in a cinematic layout A brilliant book designed and packaged by Bruce Mau with essays by Wayne Baerwaldt and others

The Paradise Institute Daniel Birnbaum, 2001 Archaeologies of Presence Gabriella Giannachi, Nick Kaye, Michael Shanks, 2012 Archaeologies of Presence is a brilliant exploration of how the performance of presence can be understood through the relationships between performance theory and archaeological thinking Drawing together carefully commissioned contributions by leading international scholars and artists this radical new work poses a number of essential questions What are the principle signifiers of theatrical presence How is presence achieved through theatrical performance What makes a memory come alive and live again How is presence connected with identity Is presence synonymous with being in the moment What is the nature of the co presence of audience and performer Where does performance practice end and its documentation begin Co edited by performance specialists Gabriella Giannachi and Nick Kaye and archaeologist Michael Shanks Archaeologies of Presence represents an innovative and rewarding feat of interdisciplinary scholarship

The Pacific, 1909 The Paradise Institute Janet Cardiff, George Bures Miller, Carolyn Christov-Bakargiev, Walter Phillips Gallery, 2003 Filming the Body in Crisis Davina Quinlivan, 2015-09-29 How does film affect the way we understand crises of the body and mind and how does it manifest other kinds of crises levelled at the spectator This book offers vital scholarly analysis of the embodied nature of film viewing and the ways in which film deals with the question of loss the healing body and its material registering of trauma Performing Site-Specific Theatre A. Birch, J. Tompkins, 2012-10-10 This book investigates the expanding parameters for site specific performance to account for the form's increasing popularity in the twenty first century Leading practitioners and theorists interrogate issues of performance and site to broaden our understanding of the role that place plays in performance and the ways that performance influences it

Static in the System Dr. Meredith C. Ward, 2019-03-05 In this rich study of noise in American film going culture Meredith C Ward shows how aurality can reveal important fissures in American motion picture history enabling certain types of listening cultures to form across time Connecting this history of noise in the cinema to a greater sonic culture Static in the System shows how cinema sound was networked into a broader constellation of factors that affected social power gender sexuality class the built environment and industry and how these factors in turn came to fruition in cinema's soundscape Focusing on theories of power as they manifest in noise the history of noise in electro acoustics with the coming of film sound architectural acoustics as they were manipulated in cinema theaters and the role of the urban environment in affecting mobile listening and the avoidance of noise Ward analyzes the powerful relationship between aural cultural history and cinema's sound theory proving that noise can become a powerful historiographic tool for the film historian The Metareferential Turn in Contemporary Arts and Media Werner Wolf, 2011-01-01 One possible description of the contemporary medial landscape in Western culture is that it has gone meta to an unprecedented extent so that a remarkable meta culture has emerged. Indeed, metareference, i.e. self-reflexive comments on or references to various kinds of media-related aspects of a given medial artefact or performance, specific media and arts or the media in general, is omnipresent and can nowadays be encountered in high art and literature as frequently as in their popular counterparts in the traditional media as well as in new media. From the Simpsons, pop music, children's literature, computer games and pornography to the contemporary visual arts, feature film, postmodern fiction, drama and even architecture everywhere one can find metareferential explorations, comments on or criticism of representation, medial conventions or modes of production and reception and related issues. Within individual media and genres, notably in research on postmodernist metafiction, this outspoken tendency towards metaization is known well enough and various reasons have been given for it. Yet never has there been an attempt to account for what one may aptly term the current metareferential turn on a larger transmedial scale. This is what The Metareferential Turn in Contemporary Arts and Media: Forms, Functions, Attempts at Explanation undertakes to do as a sequel to its predecessor, the volume Metareference across Media, vol. 4 in the series Studies in Intermediality which was dedicated to theoretical issues and transhistorical case studies. Coming from diverse disciplinary and methodological backgrounds, the contributors to the present volume propose explanations of impressive subtlety, breadth and depth for the current situation in addition to exploring individual forms and functions of metareference which may be linked with particular explanations. As expected, there is no monocausal reason to be found for the situation under scrutiny, yet the proposals made have, in their combination, a remarkable explanatory power which contributes to a better understanding of an important facet of current media production and reception. The essays assembled in the volume, which also contains an introduction with a detailed survey over the possibilities of accounting for the metareferential turn, will be relevant to students and scholars from a wide variety of fields: cultural history at large, intermediality and media studies as well as more particularly literary studies, music, film and art history.

Graves de Mortis Mathew Charpentier, 2011-04-26 The Graves de Mortis, a tome older than humanity itself. Within its cursed pages lie ineffable horrors and suggestions most foul. It has ended up in the hands of famous occultists, foolish men, powerful witches and vile priests dedicated to blasphemous deities. This anthology follows five such stories.
