

Idylls Of The King: The Passing Of Arthur (Excerpt)

That story which the bold Sir Bedivere,
First made and latest left of all the knights,
Told, when the man was no more than a voice
In the white winter of his age, to those
With whom he dwelt, new faces, other minds.
For on their march to westward, Bedivere,
Who slowly paced among the slumbering host,
Heard in his tent the moanings of the King:

"I found Him in the shining of the stars,
I mark'd Him in the flowering of His fields,
But in His ways with men I find Him not.
I waged His wars, and now I pass and die.
O me! for why is all around us here
As if some lesser god had made the world,
But had not force to shape it as he would,
Till the High God behold it from beyond,
And enter it, and make it beautiful?
Or else as if the world were wholly fair,
But that these eyes of men are dense and dim,

And have not power to see it as it is:
Perchance, because we see not to the close;--
For I, being simple, thought to work His will,
And have but stricken with the sword in vain;
And all whereon I lean'd in wife and friend
Is traitor to my peace, and all my realm
Reels back into the beast, and is no more.
My God, thou hast forgotten me in my death:
Nay--God my Christ--I pass but shall not die."

Then, ere that last weird battle in the west,

There came on Arthur sleeping, Gawain kill'd
In Lancelot's war, the ghost of Gawain blown
Along a wandering wind, and past his ear
Went shrilling, "Hollow, hollow all delight!
Hail, King! to-morrow thou shalt pass away.
Farewell! there is an isle of rest for thee.
And I am blown along a wandering wind,
And hollow, hollow, hollow all delight."
And fainter onward, like wild birds that change
Their season in the night and wail their way
From cloud to cloud, down the long wind the dream

Shrill'd; but in going mingled with dim cries
Far in the moonlit haze among the hills,
As of some lonely city sack'd by night,
When all is lost, and wife and child with wail
Pass to new lords; and Arthur woke and call'd,

The Passing of Arthur Christopher Baswell,William Sharpe,2014-08-13 Originally published in 1988 this volume contains papers from and commissioned after The Passing of Arthur a conference on Medieval and Renaissance Studies in November 1986 No Arthurian story is experienced without some foreknowledge of its end which the text acknowledges through a complex range of methods This collection takes this as its point of origin suggesting that all such narratives concern the passing of Arthur even indirectly so the chapters not only look at the death of Arthur but the passing on and development of the Arthurian literature The figure of Arthur and the Round Table continues to fascinate contemporary readers This interesting collection presents a wide range of Arthurian studies approaches representing some of the vast scholarship on the genre

Reinventing King Arthur Inga Bryden,2016-12-05 In her systematic reassessment of the remaking of the Arthurian past in nineteenth century British fiction and non fiction Inga Bryden examines the Victorian Arthurian revival as a cultural phenomenon offering insights into the relationship between social cultural religious and ethnographic debates of the period and a wide range of texts Throughout she adopts an intertextual and historical perspective informed by poststructuralist thinking to reveal nineteenth century attitudes towards the past Starting with a review of the historical evidence available to Victorian writers and an examination of how historians of the time represented Arthur the author connects Victorian accounts of Arthur s quest to contemporary scientific and historical searches for origins and knowledge and to his appropriation by competing religious movements She shows how writers explored the dynamics of heroism by recruiting Arthur and his knights to define codes of chivalric service and to personify the psychological complexities of love Finally the legend of his death and transportation to Avalon is deconstructed and placed in the context of cultural attitudes towards commemorating the dead and theological debates about the afterlife Inga Bryden engages not only with well known Arthurian texts by Tennyson Swinburne Morris and Rossetti but with lesser known works by Bulwer Lytton Robert Stephen Hawker Sebastian Evans Diana Maria Mulock Christiana Douglas and Joseph Shorthouse The Death of King Arthur Peter Ackroyd, 2011-06-02 An immortal story of chivalry treachery and death told anew for our times The legend of King Arthur has retained its appeal and popularity through the ages Mordred's treason the knightly exploits of Tristan Lancelot's fatally divided loyalties and his love for Guenevere the quest for the Holy Grail Now retold by Peter Ackroyd with his signature clarity charm and relish for a good story the result is not only one of the most readable accounts of the knights of the Round Table but also one of the most moving
