The Asia-Pacific, Regionalism and the Global System Christopher M. Dent, Jörn Dosch, 2012-01-01 Dent and Dosch have put together a superb volume that explores new dimensions of the world events for the past five decades and take decrypting the processes of regionalism global system and world society to a new height The contributors have enhanced our understanding of how regionalism has been changing when a world society will be created and why East Asia's centrality matters in this unfolding drama Policymakers academics and mass media opinion makers will find the book useful provocative and refreshing Eul Soo Pang Institute of Southeast Asian Studies Singapore Ever since the Asia Pacific transformed from an institutional desert into one of the most networked areas in the world questions of the region's future and the future of the global system have become closely intertwined This volume explores the key issues of regional co operation economic and political integration security relations and international affairs within and across the Asia Pacific The expert contributors shed critical light on how significant developments are impacting on the global system In particular they consider emerging forms of global governance and how the Asia Pacific as a region individual countries such as China Japan South Korea and the US and regional organisations and forums like APEC are shaping the world. Uniquely the discussion is not limited to East Asia but also takes Latin America prominently into the equation. This timely book will prove to be a stimulating read for academics, students, researchers and policymakers with an interest in Asian studies, development and agriculture, economics, international studies.

Dar Al Islam--the Mediterranean, the World System and the Wider Europe Peter Herrmann, Arno Tausch, 2005. With the process of a wider Europe, EU Commission President Romano Prodi's ring of friends that extends from Marrakech in Morocco to St Petersburg in Russia, gathering speed, the growing rift between Europe and America also is about how to deal politically with the countries of the Mediterranean Muslim world. The house of Islam, Dar al Islam, was pivotal to the European path to the Renaissance and to the re-discovery of classic Greek philosophy. The Mediterranean policy of the European Union aims at a positive and co-operative relationship with the region. A successful integration of the Mediterranean South would have tremendous and positive repercussions for regional and world peace. World-wide leading experts from the field of world systems analysis, economics, integration theory, political science, theology and area studies, agnostics, Christians, Jews and Muslims alike discuss the issue with European decision makers. The outcome is an interdisciplinary evaluation of this projected export of peace, co-operation, dialogue and stability in the framework of world centre periphery relationships.

Asia and the Transformation of the World-System Ganesh K. Trichur, 2015-12-03. In this collaboratively authored book, world system scholars critically synthesize Asia's re-emerging centrality despite the myriad financial crises that have punctuated the end of the U.S. dominated Cold War world order. From different vantage points, the authors review the turbulent landscape of the region that points toward a new Asian world order as well as contradictory symptoms and signals. The text highlights the salience of Northeast Asia, the resurgence of Russia and Eurasianism and the class, gender and ecological implications of a conflict-ridden regional ascent for the future of the North-South divide and for the struggle between the spirit of Davos and the spirit of Porto Alegre.

Civilizations and World Systems Stephen K. Sanderson, 1995. Leading figures in the fields of civilizational studies and sociology and political science join to compare and contrast their assumptions and conclusions about broad-scale social and historical change.

The Modern/Colonial/Capitalist World-System in the Twentieth Century Ramón Grosfoguel, Ana Margarita Cervantes-Rodríguez, 2002-07-30. An important building block for further advancing world system theory, this book considers the theory from the perspectives of global processes and antisystemic movements, feminist theory and the aftermath of the colonial system. The volume addresses three myths tied to Eurocentric forms of thinking: objectivist and universalist knowledges, the decolonization of the modern world and developmentalism. All three myths, the authors argue, conceal the continued hierarchical and unequal relations of domination and exploitation between European and Euro-American centers and non-European peripheral regions. In this volume, world system scholars address these and related aspects of the modern colonial capitalist world system. Addressing the myth of universalist knowledge, the volume reminds us that our knowledge is situated in the gender, class, racial and sexual hierarchies of a specific region in the world system while the coloniality of power additionally situates our knowledge. The volume further argues that the postcolonial era retains the hierarchy of colonialism and the possibility of national development without global structural changes is one of the greatest 20th century myths. Taking these perspectives into consideration, the contributors examine and help to refine classic world system theory.

World Cities in a World-System

Paul L. Knox, Peter James Taylor, Peter J. Taylor, 1995-07-06

Cities such as New York, Tokyo, and London are the centres of transnational corporate headquarters, of international finance, transnational institutions, and telecommunications. They are the dominant loci in the contemporary world economy, and the influence of a relatively small number of cities within world affairs has been a feature of the shift from an international to a more global economy which took place during the 1970s and 1980s. This book brings together the leading researchers in the field to write seventeen original essays which cover both the theoretical and practical issues involved. They examine the nature of world cities and their demands as special places in need of specific urban policies, the relationship between world cities within global networks of economic flows, and the relationship between world city research and world systems analysis and other theoretical frameworks.
