Sociology W Course Compass:

Sourcebook of Family Theories and Methodologies Kari Adamsons, April L. Few-Demo, Christine Proulx, Kevin Roy, 2022-11-07 This sourcebook is an unparalleled resource in the field of family science. It provides a comprehensive overview of both traditional and contemporary theories and methodologies to promote a greater understanding of increasingly complex family realities. It focuses on broad developments in research design and conceptualization while also offering a historical perspective on developments in family science over time, particularly emerging theories from the past several decades. Each chapter summarizes and evaluates a major theory or methodological approach in the field, delving into its main principles, its debates and challenges, how it has evolved over time, its practical uses in policy, education, or further research, and links to other theories and methodologies. In highlighting recent research of note, chapters emphasize the potential for innovative future applications. Key areas of coverage include Risk and resilience, family stress, feminist critical race and social exchange theories, Ambiguous loss, intersectionality, Queer and family development theory, Life course framework, Biosocial theory and biomarker methods, Symbolic interactionism, Ethnography, Mixed methods, participatory action research, and evaluation.

Designing and Teaching Undergraduate Capstone Courses Robert C. Hauhart, Jon E. Grahe, 2015-01-12 Enrich your students and the institution with a high impact practice. Designing and Teaching Undergraduate Capstone Courses is a practical, research-backed guide to creating a course that is valuable for both the student and the school. The book covers the design, administration, and teaching of capstone courses throughout the undergraduate curriculum, guiding departments seeking to add a capstone course and allowing those who have one to compare it to others in the discipline. The ideas presented in the book are supported by regional and national surveys that help the reader understand what's common, what's exceptional, what works, and what doesn't within capstone courses. The authors also provide additional information specific to different departments across the curriculum, including STEM, social sciences, humanities, fine arts, education, and professional programs. Identified as a high impact practice by the National Survey of Student Engagement (NSSE) and the Association of American Colleges and Universities (LEAP) initiative, capstone courses culminate a student's final college years in a project that integrates and applies what they've learned. The project takes the form of a research paper, a performance, a portfolio, or an exhibit and is intended to showcase the student's very best work as a graduating senior. This book is a guide to creating for your school or department a capstone course that ties together undergraduate learning in a way that enriches the student and adds value to the college experience. Understand what makes capstone courses valuable for graduating students. Discover the factors that make a capstone course effective and compare existing programs both within academic disciplines and across institutions. Learn administrative and pedagogical techniques that increase the course's success. Examine discipline-specific considerations for design, administration, and instruction. Capstones are generally offered in departmental programs but are becoming increasingly common in general education as well Faculty and administrators looking to add a capstone course or revive an existing one need to understand what constitutes an effective program Designing and Teaching Undergraduate Capstone Courses provides an easily digested summary of existing research and offers expert guidance on making your capstone course successful The Future of Agency Harry F. Compass for a New World Robert J. Brym, 2003 A New Model of Religious Conversion Ines W. Jindra, 2014-02-06 Based on the analysis of 52 conversion narratives to various religious groups A New Model of Religious Conversion utilizes case studies for comparison of converts backgrounds network influence and conversion narratives The author convincingly illustrates a fit between the converts background and the religion they convert to such as between disorganized family backgrounds and highly structured religions Conversely those from highly structured backgrounds often convert to more open groups The book also makes it clear that not all conversions are influenced by networks or align themselves with a social constructivist view of a conversion as an account Taking converts trajectories seriously the author makes a strong case for the application of biographical sociology to the study of conversion and American sociology overall Social Work Journal ,1927
