Lost Homelands Audrey Goodman, 2022-02-08 Before the 1930s landscapes of the American Southwest represented the migrant s dream of a stable and bountiful homeland Around the time of the Great Depression however the Southwest suddenly became integrated into a much larger economic and cultural system Audrey Goodman examines how since that time these southwestern landscapes have come to reveal the resulting fragmentation of identity and community Through analyzing a variety of texts and images Goodman illuminates the ways that modern forces such as militarization environmental degradation internal migration and an increased border patrol presence have shattered the perception of a secure homeland in the Southwest The deceptive natural beauty of the Southwest deserts shields a dark history of trauma and decimation that has remained as a shadow on the region s psyche The first to really synthesize such wide ranging material about the effects of the atomic age in the Southwest Goodman realizes the value of combined visual and verbal art and uses it to put forth her own original ideas about reconstructing a new sense of homeland

Lost Homelands reminds us of the adversity and dislocation suffered by people of the Southwest by looking at the ways that artists photographers filmmakers and writers have grappled with these problems for decades In assessing the ruination of the region however Goodman argues that those same artists and writers have begun to reassemble a new sense of homeland from these fragments

A Psychoanalytic Approach to Visual Artists James W. Hamilton, 2018-03-22 James Hamilton s engaging book offers us his own unique insight into the unconscious factors involved in the creative processes associated with painting filmmaking and photography by studying the lives and works of a number of artists each one having a unique personal style In separate chapters he looks at the lives and works of Mark Rothko Joseph Cornell Piet Mondrian Pablo Picasso Clement Greenberg Edward Weston Ingmar Bergman Francois Truffaut Quentin Tarantino and Florian von Donnersmarck from a psychoanalytic perspective with emphasis on unconscious motivation and the quest for mastery of intrapsychic conflict The book is bound to encourage further questions and hypotheses about the nature of these complex phenomena

A Medium Seen Otherwise Roger Hallas, 2023 Through a new look at how political historical and art documentaries engage with photographic images objects and archives A Medium Seen Otherwise argues that film allows us to better understand what people do with analog and digital photographs as material objects that enable social and political relations through multisensory experience. Moreover, as a time-based medium with sound, film can bring the event of photography into fuller view, demonstrating how no single participant in it—photographer, subject, camera, photograph, or viewer—has sovereignty over its affect, meaning, or value. The book thus explores the ways in which the innovative incorporation of photography into documentary film permits us to see both of these media otherwise. Photographs, whether professional or vernacular, are conventionally understood to furnish documentaries with indexical evidence and visual illustration of history; yet the spatio-temporal and aural dimensions of film permit documentaries to illuminate photography's wider capacities beyond the merely representational. Combining new critical perspectives on well-known documentary filmmakers and photographers—Agnès Varda, Rithy Panh, Edward Burtynsky, Malick Sidibé, Vivian Maier, JR, Ken Burns, Errol Morris, and Akram Zaatari—with analyses of lesser-known but important documentaries, author Roger Hallas investigates a global range of documentary and vernacular photographic contexts, including Lebanon, Palestine, Mali, Congo, Cambodia, Ireland, Spain, Mexico, Chile, Canada, and the US. While authorship and representation remain common rhetorical frameworks for documentaries about photography, A Medium Seen Otherwise offers a compelling account of how the intermediality between documentary film and photography can posit far more expansive conceptions of both media. A companion website shows clips of films discussed in the book.

The Development Film in the Americas

Molly Geidel, 2025-10-28. In this book, Molly Geidel traces the rise and fall of the development film, an overlooked film genre that circulated widely in the Americas from the 1940s through the 1970s. Development films, often short documentaries, were made at the behest of state agencies, global governance organizations, and private corporations to link capitalist conceptions of economic growth to improved quality of life. Development films made this link beautifully compelling, blending elements from ethnography and socially committed leftist film traditions to create indelible narratives of underdevelopment and modernization. The Development Film in the Americas tells the story of these films and the hemispheric cohort of filmmakers who crafted them, chronicling the filmmakers' fraught relationships with both the organizations they worked for and the actors in their films.

Hoover Dam Barbara Vilander, 2022-02-22. Hoover Dam was constructed during one of the most depressed economic climates in American history, in a remote desert canyon where temperatures ranged from single to triple digits. In order to visually document the project, the Bureau of Reclamation assigned employee Ben Glaha to photograph all aspects of the dam's construction. Glaha's photographs were used in press releases, periodicals, books, pamphlets, and slide shows to demonstrate that the dam was structurally sound and that government funds were being used wisely. Hoover Dam: The Photographs of Ben Glaha is the first detailed examination of Glaha's images of the project, some of which have never before been published. Glaha photographed every aspect of the construction process, from details of how the dam was assembled to the overall progress as the dam rose from the bottom of the dry riverbed. Glaha not only provided the Bureau with the photographs it required he also employed his own artistic abilities to produce images of the dam that were exhibited in museums and galleries as works of art Because Glaha was able to create a selection of Hoover Dam photographs worthy of exhibition he was unique among government documentary photographers Art historian Barbara Vilander's text places Glaha's efforts within the historical context of western landscape exploration and development and reveals how his particular qualifications led to his selection as the project photographer Vilander then examines the many publications and venues in which the Bureau used Glaha's photographs to create support for the project She also discusses how Glaha was recognized in his own era as an influential artist and teacher and compares his work with that of other contemporary landscape photographers addressing western water management Glaha's Hoover Dam images were widely published although in accordance with Bureau policy he was not usually given personal credit and therefore his name remains largely unknown Vilander's book corrects that oversight by giving Glaha the technical and artistic credit he is due within the context of one of the most ambitious projects in American history

On the Edge of America Paul J. Karlstrom, 1996-01-01 The past quarter century has witnessed the emergence of a scholarly appreciation of American art in California Yet assessments of the early modern pre 1950 have been haphazard Now in one bold volume these scholars have remedied that deficiency Thanks to the rich essays of this wonderful book the art history of California and the nation is graced with further light Dr Kevin Starr State Librarian of California The authors of these essays illuminate a diverse and compelling history one in which what happened at the geographic edges sheds new light on the European points of origin A lively and valuable contribution not just to regional history but to the making and transmission of modernism Whitney Chadwick Professor of Art History San Francisco State University A welcome and overdue evaluation of the distinctive history of modernism in California these essays sensitively explore a cultural terrain at once familiar and strange surveying memorable achievements from painting to photography to architecture and film The authors provocatively suggest the centrality of edges wherever they are found to the national tale and demonstrate it through significant developments on our western margin A must for any serious student of American art and culture Charles C Eldredge The University of Kansas An engrossing examination of modernist practices in California before the Abstract Expressionists and beatniks came to town It includes art scenes peopled by Mexican muralists European artists in exile third generation Californians idealist photographers and immigrant artisans Wanda Corn Professor of Art History Stanford University These fascinating essays do much more than fill a major gap in our understanding of American regionalism Their scope is superb because of the inclusive range of their definition of art the varied ethnicities of the artists discussed and the distinctive impact of environment light and culture on California art A dazzling treasure as pleasing to the eye as it is to the mind Michael Kammen Professor of History Cornell University

Common Ground Philip Brookman, 2004 The universal human experiences of struggle transcendence and salvation are explored through painting sculpture folk art photography and assemblage from the nineteenth and twentieth centuries
