Romantic Echoes in the Victorian Era Andrew Radford, 2017-03-02 In tracing those deliberate and accidental Romantic echoes that reverberate through the Victorian age into the beginning of the twentieth century this collection acknowledges that the Victorians decided for themselves how to define what is Romantic The essays explore the extent to which Victorianism can be distinguished from its Romantic precursors or whether it is possible to conceive of Romanticism without the influence of these Victorian definitions Romantic Echoes in the Victorian Era reassesses Romantic literature's immediate cultural and literary legacy in the late nineteenth century showing how the Victorian writings of Matthew Arnold Wilkie Collins the Brontës the Brownings Elizabeth Gaskell Charles Dickens Gerard Manley Hopkins Thomas Hardy and the Rossettis were instrumental in shaping Romanticism as a cultural phenomenon Many of these Victorian writers found in the biographical literary and historical models of Chatterton Coleridge Byron Shelley Keats and Wordsworth touchstones for reappraising their own creative potential and artistic identity Whether the Victorians affirmed or revolted against the Romanticism of their early years their attitudes towards Romantic values enriched and intensified the personal creative and social dilemmas described in their art Taken together the essays in this collection reflect on current critical dialogues about literary periodisation and contribute to our understanding of how these contemporary debates stem from Romanticism's inception in the Victorian age

Asian Classics on the Victorian Bookshelf Alexander Bubb, 2023-03-14 The interest among Victorian readers in classical literature from Asia has been greatly underestimated The popularity of the Arabian Nights and The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam is well documented Yet this was also an era in which freethinkers consulted the Quran in which schoolchildren were given abridgements of the

Ramayana to read in which names like Kalidasa and Firdusi were carved on the facades of public libraries and in which women's book clubs discussed Japanese poetry But for the most part such readers were not consulting the specialist publications of scholarly orientalists What then were the translations that catalysed these intercultural encounters Based on a unique methodology marrying translation theory with empirical techniques developed by historians of reading this book shines light for the first time on the numerous amateur translators or popularizers who were responsible for making these texts accessible and disseminating them to the Victorian general readership Asian Classics on the Victorian Bookshelf explains the process whereby popular translations were written published distributed to bookshops and libraries and ultimately consumed by readers It uses the working papers and correspondence of popularizers to demonstrate their techniques and motivations while the responses of contemporary readers are traced through the pencil marginalia they left behind in dozens of original copies In spite of their typically limited knowledge of source languages Asian Classics argues that popularizers produced versions more respectful of the complexity cultural difference and fundamental untranslatability of Asian texts than the professional orientalists whose work they were often adapting The responses of their readers likewise frequently deviated from interpretive norms and it is proposed that this combination of eccentric translators and unorthodox readers triggered flights of translation whereby historical individuals can be seen to escape the hegemony of orientalist forms of knowledge

The Publishers' Trade List Annual, 1985 'Tis Nature's Fault Robert P. Maccubbin, 1987 This 1988 volume addresses sexual phenomena in eighteenth century Europe that were outside the legal or sanctified systems of acceptability

Queer Beauty Whitney Davis, 2010-09-22 The pioneering work of Johann Winckelmann 1717-1768 identified a homoerotic appreciation of male beauty in classical Greek sculpture a fascination that had endured in Western art since the Greeks After Winckelmann however sometimes the value even the possibility of queer beauty in art was denied Several theorists after Winckelmann notably the philosopher Immanuel Kant broke sexual attraction and aesthetic appreciation into separate or dueling domains In turn sexual desire and aesthetic pleasure conceived as discrete categories had to be profoundly rethought by later writers Davis argues that these disjunct domains could be rejoined by such innovative thinkers as John Addington Symonds Michel Foucault and Richard Wollheim who reclaimed earlier insights about the mutual implication of sexuality and aesthetics Addressing texts by Arthur Schopenhauer Charles Darwin Oscar Wilde Vernon Lee and Sigmund Freud among many others Davis criticizes modern approaches such as Kantian idealism Darwinism psychoanalysis and analytic aesthetics for either reducing aesthetics to a question of sexuality or for removing sexuality from the aesthetic field altogether Despite these schematic reductions sexuality always returns to aesthetics and aesthetic considerations always recur in sexuality Davis particularly shows that formal philosophies of art since the late eighteenth century have had to respond to nonstandard sexuality especially homoeroticism and that theories of nonstandard sexuality have drawn on aesthetics in significant ways Many of the most imaginative and penetrating critics wrestled productively though often inconclusively and against themselves with the aesthetic making of new forms of sexual life and new forms of art made from reconstituted sexualities Through a critique that confronts history philosophy science psychology and dominant theories of art and sexuality Davis challenges privileged types of sexual and aesthetic creation imagined in modern culture and still assumed today The Drama of Storytelling in T.E. Brown's Manx Yarns Max Keith Sutton,1991 This study deals with the Manx poet T E Brown and his rustic persona in perhaps the most sustained dramatization of the trials and triumphs of storytelling in British poetry Fo c s le Yarns The Spectator ,1879 The Publishers' Circular and Booksellers' Record of British and Foreign Literature ,1901 Athenaeum ,1858 "The" Athenaeum ,1893
