The Peasants Of Languedoc:

The Peasants of Languedoc Emmanuel Le Roy Ladurie, 1976 This volume combines elements of human geography historical demography economic history and folk culture in a depiction of a great agrarian cycle lasting from the Renaissance to the Enlightenment It describes the conflicts and contradictions of a traditional peasant society in which the rise in population was not matched by increases in wealth and food production

The Peasants of Languedoc Emmanuel Le Roy Ladurie, 1980 Les Paysans de Languedoc Emmanuel Le Roy Ladurie, 1966 The Mediterranean and the Mediterranean World in the Age of Philip II Fernand Braudel, 2023-07-25 The focus of Fernand Braudel's great work is the Mediterranean world in the second half of the sixteenth century but Braudel ranges back in history to the world of Odysseus and forward to our time moving out from the Mediterranean area to the New World and other destinations of Mediterranean traders Braudel's scope embraces the natural world and material life economics demography politics and diplomacy

Les Paysans de Languedoc Emmanuel Le Roy Ladurie, 1974

The Content of Social Explanation Susan James, 1984-11-15 This is a study of the central questions of explanation in the social sciences and a defence of holism against individualism In the first half of the book Susan James sets out very clearly the philosophical background to this controversy She locates its source not at the analytical level at which most of the debate is usually conducted but at a more fundamental moral level in different conceptions of the human individual In the second half of the book she examines critically three case studies of holistic approaches Althusser Poulantzas and the Annales historians and progressively refines our sense of the strengths and deficiencies of their programmes She ends by arguing for a form of concessive holism which offers some accommodation to liberal conceptions of individual autonomy but continues to emphasise the explanatory importance of social regularities and environments

Truth in Science, the Humanities and Religion International Balzan Foundation, 2010-06-14 by the Academies of the two countries to the Italian Swiss University of Lugano for the two day Symposium The question of the meaning of truth is central to many areas of contemporary debate whether between those subscribing to a post Enlightenment view of the world and those who seek fundamental truth in religious texts or between those maintaining that there are absolute truths and those believing facts to be social constructs For some the ultimate truth is revealed through religious faith and textual authority Can this view be reconciled with an evidence based materialist post Enlightenment perspective of the truth as embraced by the natural sciences If religion holds the key to the truth which religion and which truths During the five thematic sessions of the symposium all attended by the same audience and by all the speakers and panel members these and many other questions but in particular the one about the meaning of truth were examined and debated The whole range of perspectives represented on the panels and in the audience came to the fore After the keynote lecture by Professor Simon Blackburn the five sessions covered the following disciplines philosophy mathematics physics cosmology the biological sciences including biodiversity and sustainability history the social sciences theology and religion

This volume contains the speakers lectures the corresponding reactions of the invited panel members as well as the panel and general discussions of the two d symposium

The Historical Present Walter Kudrycz, 2011-01-13 Medievalism has become a central concern for those studying and teaching medieval history It can be distinguished from traditional medieval history because it is not directly concerned with the study of the Middle Ages themselves but rather it looks at how ideas about the medieval era operate in modern culture This volume breaks new ground by moving beyond the arena of contemporary popular culture by interpreting modern academic attitudes towards the Middle Ages as themselves forms of medievalism What is presented as refined historical truth is no more than a construction of truth derived from the larger philosophical and cultural trends of our own day This volume argues that modernity s sense of the medieval past is the product of the dominant intellectual movements of the nineteenth century Romanticism and Idealism and that nineteenth century attitudes have continued to inform current understandings of the Middle Ages This is a narrative that combines the main themes of modern scholarship on the medieval age with a subtly portrayed picture of the philosophical culture which produced them

Population Growth and Agrarian Change David B. Grigg, 1980-12-18 This book first published in 1980 suggests some ways of looking at the interrelationships between population growth and agrarian change and uses these approaches to consider the demographic and agrarian problems of various parts of Europe in the past in the fourteenth century the sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries and in the early nineteenth century

Psychology and History Cristian Tileagă, Jovan Byford, 2014-02-20 As disciplines psychology and history share a primary concern with the human condition Yet historically the relationship between the two fields has been uneasy marked by a long standing climate of mutual suspicion This book engages with the history of this relationship and possibilities for its future intellectual and empirical development Bringing together internationally renowned psychologists and historians it explores the ways in which the two disciplines could benefit from a closer dialogue Thirteen chapters span a broad range of topics including social memory prejudice stereotyping affect and emotion cognition personality gender and the self Contributors draw on examples from different cultural contexts from eighteenth century Britain to apartheid South Africa to conflict torn Yugoslavia to offer fresh impetus to interdisciplinary scholarship Generating new ideas research questions and problems this book encourages researchers to engage in genuine dialogue and place their own explorations in new intellectual contexts
