Skills Development for Engineers Kevin Hoag, 2001 While classroom learning is suited for conveying basic information to large numbers of people Hoag Engine Research Center U of Wisconsin at Madison argues that continuing education for engineers most often requires small groups of people to rapidly develop proficiencies He discusses the roles of upper management direct supervisors and individual engineers in his proposed model for continuing education in organizations After outlining the model he discusses applications related to rotational programs organizational assessment and program evaluation Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Using the Engineering Literature Bonnie A.

Osif, 2006-08-23 The field of engineering is becoming increasingly interdisciplinary and there is an ever growing need for engineers to investigate engineering and scientific resources outside their own area of expertise However studies have shown that quality information finding skills often tend to be lacking in the engineering profession Using the Engineerin

Learning Trajectories, Innovation and Identity for Professional Development Anne Mc Kee, Michael Eraut, 2011-09-18 Educators in the professions have always had unique demands placed upon them These include the need to keep pace with rapidly evolving knowledge bases developing skills and attitudes appropriate to practice learning in the workplace and fostering public confidence For twenty years these new demands have created additional educational imperatives Public accountability has become more intensive and extensive Practitioners practice in climates more subject to scrutiny and less forgiving of error The contexts in which professionals practice and learn have changed and these changes involve global issues and problems Often professionals are the first responders who are required to take an active stance in defining and solving problems This book explores the pedagogic implications of these challenges internationally for a wide range of professions which include accountants military company commanders surgeons nurse practitioners academic managers community physicians and dentists The established view of professional development is about what the professional knows and can do The authors broaden this view to include the systemic and contextual factors that affect learning and the conditions necessary for effective practice and identity development across the professional lifespan Authors examine the unique particularities and requirements of diverse professional groups The editors emphasize new ideas and learning that emerges across the professions As readers use this book as a pathway to their own innovations in scholarship and pedagogic research they join their colleagues in supporting new directions in learning teaching and assessment across professions This book was awarded the Outstanding Research Publication award for 2012 by the American Educational Research Association s Division I Education in the Professions p Using the Engineering Literature, Second Edition Bonnie A. Osif, 2011-08-09 With the encroachment of the Internet into nearly all aspects of work and life it seems as though information is everywhere However there is information and then there is correct appropriate and timely information While we might love being able to turn to Wikipedia for encyclopedia like information or search Google for the thousands of links on a topic engineers need the best information information that is evaluated up to date and complete Accurate vetted information is necessary when building new skyscrapers or developing new prosthetics for returning military veterans While the award winning first edition of Using the Engineering Literature used a roadmap analogy we now need a three dimensional analysis reflecting the complex and dynamic nature of research in the information age Using the Engineering Literature Second Edition provides a guide to the wide range of resources available in all fields of engineering This second edition has been thoroughly revised and features new sections on nanotechnology as well as green engineering The information age has greatly impacted the way engineers find information Engineers have an effect directly and indirectly on almost all aspects of our lives and it is vital that they find the right information at the right time to create better products and processes Comprehensive and up to date with expert chapter authors this book fills a gap in the literature providing critical information in a user friendly format Engineering Asset Management Joseph Mathew, Lin Ma, Andy Tan, Deryk

Developing Effective Engineering Leadership Ray Morrison, Ray E. Morrison, Carl Ericsson, 2003 This book will enable engineering organisations to manage their valuable knowledge resources and the people who possess them The authors show that the loss of experience and knowledge base due to staff turnover erodes corporate culture Workplace Learning in Teacher Education Olwen McNamara, Jean Murray, Marion Jones, 2013-11-19 This book explores teacher workplace learning from four different perspectives social policy international comparators multi professional stances perspectives and socio cultural theory First it considers the policy and practice context of professional learning in teacher education in England and the rest of the UK with particular reference to professional masters level provision The importance of teachers and schools perceptions of improvement development and learning and the inherent tensions between individual school and government priorities is explored Second the book considers models of teacher workplace learning to be found in international research and practice to explore what perspective they can bring to understanding policy and practice relating to workplace learning in the UK Third it draws on cross professional analysis to get an intellectual and theoretical purchase on workplace learning by examining how insights from across the professions can provide us with useful perspectives on policy and practice The analysis draws particularly on insights from medicine and educational psychology Fourth the book cross fertilises research and practice across the field of education by drawing on insights from perspectives such as socio cultural and activity theory and situated learning cognition to discover what they can offer in analysing the theoretical and pedagogic underpinnings of teacher workplace learning In short the book offers a number of contexts for exploring how best to conceptualise and theorise learning in the workplace in order to generate evidence to inform policy and practice and facilitates the development of a more theoretically informed and robust model of workplace learning and teaching

The Innovation Imperative for Developing East Asia Xavier Cirera, Andrew D. Mason, Francesca de Nicola, Smita Kuriakose, Davide S. Mare, Trang Thu Tran, 2021-05-07. After a half century of transformative economic progress that moved hundreds of millions of people out of poverty, countries in developing East Asia are facing an array of challenges to their future development. Slowed productivity growth, increased fragility of the global trading system, and rapid changes in technology are all threatening export-oriented, labor-intensive manufacturing, the region's engine of growth. Significant global challenges such as climate change and the COVID-19 pandemic are exacerbating economic vulnerability. These developments raise questions about whether the region's past model of development can continue to deliver rapid growth and poverty reduction. Against this background, The Innovation Imperative in Developing East Asia aims to deepen understanding of the role of innovation in future development. The report examines the state of innovation in the region and analyzes the main constraints that firms and countries face to innovating. It assesses current policies and institutions and lays out an agenda for action to spur more innovation-led growth. A key finding of the report is that countries' current innovation policies are not aligned with their capabilities and needs. Policies need to strengthen the capacity of firms to innovate and support technological diffusion rather than just invention. Policy makers also need to eliminate policy biases against innovation in services, a sector that is growing in economic importance. Moreover, countries need to strengthen key complementary factors for innovation, including firms' managerial quality, workers' skills, and finance for innovation. Countries in developing East Asia would also do well to deepen their tradition of international openness, which could foster openness in other parts of the world. Doing so would help sustain the flows of ideas, trade, investment, and people that facilitate the creation and diffusion of knowledge for innovation.
