

An illustration of a man and a woman in a conversation. The man, on the left, has a beard and is wearing a pink patterned sweater. The woman, on the right, has glasses and a ponytail, wearing a white shirt with a red vest and green pants, and is holding a blue folder. They are set against a solid green background. Two speech bubbles are positioned above them, and a large dark blue speech bubble on the right contains the title 'SMALL TALK'.

While most people are comfortable making conversation with friends and family, some people can easily go beyond this boundary and talk to anyone about anything. The Basic of Bad Conversation. Once you have a better idea of what good conversation entails, the next thing you are going to want to do is avoid the following conversation killers if you want the other person to stick around long enough. Learn to Listen. When you are in a conversation, it is just as important to make the other person feel as though you are listening as it is to be actively engaged in whatever it is they are saying. Dealing with Awkward Silences. No matter how well any conversation is going, there are always going to be moments when everyone involved runs out of things to say at the same time. Starting a Conversation. Now that you have learned what can turn a conversation from neutral to either good or bad, it is time to start thinking about the best way to start a conversation with a stranger regardless of the time or the place. Ending a Conversation. When it comes to ending a conversation properly, the most important thing to remember is that you always need to have a clear agenda when doing so. Fake It Until You Make
