magazine making New York has had an extraordinary knack for catching the Zeitgeist and getting it on the page. It was among the originators of the New Journalism publishing legendary stories whose authors infiltrated a Black Panther party in Leonard Bernstein's apartment introduced us to the mother-daughter hermits living in the dilapidated estate known as Grey Gardens launched Ms. Magazine branded a group of up-and-coming teen stars the Brat Pack and effectively ended the career of Roger Ailes. Again and again it introduced new words into the conversation from foodie to normcore and spotted fresh talent before just about anyone. Along the way those writers and their colleagues revealed what was most interesting at the forward edge of American culture from the old Brooklyn of Saturday Night Fever to the new Brooklyn of artisanal food trucks from the Wall Street crashes to the hedge fund spoils from The Godfather to Girls in ways that were knowing, witty, sometimes weird, occasionally vulgar and often unforgettable. On The Approval Matrix, the magazine's beloved back-page feature, New York itself would fall at the crossroads of highbrow and lowbrow and more brilliant than despicable. Most of the time. Marking the magazine's fiftieth birthday, Highbrow Lowbrow Brilliant Despicable: 50 Years of New York draws from all that coverage to present an enormous sweeping idiosyncratic picture of a half-century at the center of the world. Through stories and images of power and money, movies and food crises and family life, it constitutes an unparalleled history of that city's transformation and of a New York City institution as well. It is packed with behind-the-scenes stories from New York's writers, editors, designers and journalistic subjects and frequently overflows its own pages onto spectacular foldouts. It's a big book for a big town.
