Maurice Blanchot and Fragmentary Writing Leslie Hill, 2012-07-05 Writing in fragments is often held to be one of the most distinctive signature effects of Romantic modern and postmodern literature But what is the fragment and what may be said to be its literary philosophical and political significance Few writers have explored these questions with such probing radicality and rigorous tenacity as the French writer and thinker Maurice Blanchot For the first time in any language this book explores in detail Blanchot's own writing in fragments in order to understand the stakes of the fragmentary within philosophical and literary modernity It attends in detail to each of Blanchot's fragmentary works Awaiting Forgetting The Step Not Beyond and The Writing of the Disaster and reconstructs Blanchot's radical critical engagement with the philosophical and literary tradition in particular with Hegel Nietzsche Heidegger Heraclitus Levinas Derrida Nancy Mallarmé Char and others and assesses Blanchot's account of politics Jewish thought and the Shoah with a view to understanding the stakes of fragmentary writing in Blanchot and within philosophical and literary modernity in general

Translating Early Modern China Carla Nappi, 2021-04-08 The history of China as any history is a story of and in translation Translating Early Modern China tells the story of translation in China to and from non European languages and Latin between the fourteenth and the nineteenth centuries and primarily in the Ming and Qing dynasties Each chapter finds a particular translator resurrected from the past to tell the story of a text that helped shape the history of translation in China In Chinese Mongolian Manchu Latin and more these texts helped to make the Chinese language what it was at different points in its history This volume explores what the form of an academic history book might look like by playing with fictioning as part of the historian's craft The book's many stories of glossaries and official Ming translation bureaus of bilingual Ming Chinese Mongolian language primers of the first Latin grammar of Manchu of a Qing Manchu conversation manual of a collection of Manchu poems by a Qing translator serve as case studies that open out into questions of language and translation in China's past of the use of fiction as a historian's tool and of the ways that translation creates language

Emotion and the Structure of Narrative Film Ed S. Tan,2013-10-16 Introduced one hundred years ago film has since become part of our lives For the past century however the experience offered by fiction films has remained a mystery Questions such as why adult viewers cry and shiver and why they care at all about fictional characters while aware that they contemplate an entirely staged scene are still unresolved In addition it is unknown why spectators find some film experiences entertaining that have a clearly aversive nature outside the cinema These and other questions make the psychological status of emotions allegedly induced by the fiction film highly problematic Earlier attempts to answer these questions have been limited to a few genre studies In recent years film criticism and the theory of film structure have made use of psychoanalytic concepts which have proven insufficient in accounting for the diversity of film induced affect In contrast academic psychology during the century of its existence has made extensive study of emotional responses provoked by viewing fiction film but has taken the role of film as a natural stimulus completely for granted The present volume bridges the gap between critical theories of film on the one hand and recent psychological theory and research of human emotion on the other in an attempt to explain the emotions provoked by fiction film This book integrates insights on the narrative structure of fiction film including its themes plot structure and characters with recent knowledge on the cognitive processing of natural events and narrative and person information It develops a theoretical framework for systematically describing emotion in the film viewer The question whether or not film produces genuine emotion is answered by comparing affect in the viewer with emotion in the real world experienced by persons witnessing events that have personal significance to them Current understanding of the psychology of emotions provides the basis for identifying critical features of the fiction film that trigger the general emotion system Individual emotions are classified according to their position in the affect structure of a film a larger system of emotions produced by one particular film as a whole Along the way a series of problematic issues is dealt with notably the reality of the emotional stimulus in film the identification of the viewer with protagonists on screen and the necessity of the viewer s cooperation in arriving at a genuine emotion Finally it is argued that film produced emotions are genuine emotions in response to an artificial stimulus Film can be regarded as a fine tuned machine for a continuous stream of emotions that are entertaining after all The work paves the way for understanding and in principle predicting emotions in the film viewer using existing psychological instruments of investigation Dealing with the problems of film induced affect and rendering them accessible to formal modeling and experimental method serves a wider interest of understanding aesthetic emotion the feelings that man made products and especially works of art can evoke in the beholder Gospel Virtues

Jonathan R. Wilson, 2004-08-16 Virtues are in but the work of Bill Bennett and others says little about specifically Christian virtues Jonathan Wilson now recounts the recent rise of virtue ethics and provides a compelling Christian account and justification of them Wilson engages such key figures as Alasdair MacIntyre and Stanley Hauerwas Focusing especially on the theological virtues of faith hope and love he not only sets forth a closely reasoned intellectual argument but suggests how an embrace of virtue ethics might change the nitty gritty practice of the church's education worship and hospitality Accessible informed and faithful Gospel Virtues is important reading for all who care about issues of character and community Agreeing the Future W.
