Teaching Language Arts in Middle Schools Sharon Kingen, 2000-02-01. This text is designed specifically to meet the needs of preservice teachers who have had little experience working in middle grade classrooms. Three ideas are central: teaching language arts at the middle level is a complex activity that demands expertise in the use of a variety of strategies; reading and writing are key processes of language arts study but so are speaking, listening and viewing; visually representing and teaching the processes of effective communication is crucial but middle school students must also begin to learn the content of the field: literature, language and media. Teaching Language Arts in Middle Schools gives balanced attention to various teaching strategies, processes and content demonstrating how all of these connect to improve students' abilities to communicate. In this text, Research and theory are summarized and applied to practice. A non-prescriptive approach is integrated with practical information. Debates in the field are acknowledged. Additional reading and research are emphasized. The author's voice and point of view are explicit.

Teaching the Language Arts Cathy Collins Block, 2001. This book explains and demonstrates with a clear step by step approach how communication and thinking competencies can be enhanced through instruction. This revision elaborates further on a language arts program built to focus on the needs of individual students. Each of the fourteen chapters is divided into three sections covering theoretical foundations, practice and professional development giving the text a practical, usable organization. The second and third sections apply the principles from the first section to the classroom. Features in these sections show specific teaching strategies that offer practical ideas.
