The Emerging British Underclass Choice In Welfare:

The Emerging British Underclass Charles A. Murray, 1990-01-01      Charles Murray and the Underclass Charles Murray, 2000-05-31 Charles Murray is one of America's most respected social policy analysts. His ideas about the underclass outlined in his classic Losing Ground have entered the mainstream of the debate about poverty. Murray's thesis that the underclass represents not a degree of poverty but a type of poverty characterised by deviant attitudes towards parenting, work, and crime has been explosively controversial. It has also become more difficult to resist as the deterioration of the social fabric has become increasingly obvious in British and US situations. In his article subsequently published by the IEA as The Emerging British Underclass, Murray described himself as a visitor from a plague area come to see whether the disease is spreading. In 1993 he returned to check on its progress and the resulting article also for The Sunday Times was published with commentaries by critics of Murray's thesis, thus presenting the reader with a range of views on the issue. Schools and universities have led to the present omnibus edition which contains all of the original material from both volumes together with a new introduction by Ruth Lister of Loughborough University and an update of the statistics by Alan Buckingham of the University of Sussex Community Care.

Pupil Disaffection in Schools Sarah Swann, 2016-04-15 Sarah Swann provides a fresh approach to examining the long-standing debates over disaffection and, in particular, social class differences in educational achievement through a mixed methods methodology and the showcasing of new research. By observing pupils as they engage with peers and teachers in school, Swann allows disaffection to be seen and heard in real events which constructs disaffection differently from objective statistical evidence on school exclusions. Rather than a homogenous identity, this book illustrates disaffection as layered and resting on a series of issues located on the crossroads between the cultural context of the neighbourhood and the public sphere of the school. It plots in a detailed way how these structures interact and mesh to create disaffected identities. Disaffection does not emerge in a vacuum or without a cause. Pupils arrive at school with a wide variety of experiences and it is from these that they interpret, understand, and act out their identities. Whilst the study in part seeks to describe and understand the social world of the school in terms of the pupils' interpretations of the situation, it analytically frames the perceptions of pupils within a wider social context. In particular, it focuses on the relationships between schooling and the wider macro structures and social relations that underpin disaffection. This approach makes the research both critical and interpretative and also able to shed new light on educational policy across England based on an understanding of the role of disaffection.

Indexing 'Chav' on Social Media Emilia Di Martino, 2022-09-15 The book sets out to examine the concept of chav providing a review of its origins its characterological figures the process of enregisterment whereby it has come to be recognized in public discourse and the traits associated with it in traditional media representations The author then discusses the chav label in light of recent re appropriations in social network activity particularly through the video sharing app TikTok and subsequent commentary in the public sphere She traces the evolution of the term from its use during the first decade of the twenty first century to make sense of class status and cultural capital to its resurgence and the ways in which it is still associated with appearance in gendered and classed ways She then draws on recent developments in linguistic anthropology and embodied sociocultural linguistics to argue that social media users draw on communicative resources to perform identities that are both situated in specific contexts of discourse and dynamically changing challenging the idea that geo sociocultural varieties and mannerisms are the sole way of indexing membership of a community This volume contends that equating chav with underclass in the most recent uses of the concept on social networks may not be the whole story and the book will be of interest to sociocultural linguistics and identity researchers as well as readers in anthropology sociology British studies cultural studies identity studies digital humanities and sociolinguistics
