Neuroaesthetics: Exploring Beauty Within And Around Us Yan Bao,Ernst Poppel,Richu Wang,Semir Zeki,2024-12-13 Neuroaesthetics has become an important new field in the sciences bringing together researchers from cognitive science as a general term including brain science psychology anthropology ethology artificial intelligence the humanities including linguistics philosophy and the arts artists from the visual arts music and poetry Thus neuroaesthetics is a prime example of successful interdisciplinarity In the book Neuroaesthetics Exploring Beauty Within and Around Us we distinguish and represent in several articles two different kinds of interdisciplinarity Horizontal interdisciplinarity brings together in a complementary way different fields like as an example psychology linguistics and poetry Vertical interdisciplinarity refers to research on data generating mechanisms like as an example neural activities in the brain being associated with subjective experiences of beauty In the book articles refer to the visual arts art in space to faces in art to poetry and music art in time and to general ideas bridging art and science This is a unique collection of articles with a broad scope

The Janus-Face of Language: Where Are the Emotions in Words and the Words in Emotions? Cornelia Herbert, Thomas Ethofer, Andreas J. Fallgatter, Peter Walla, Georg Northoff, 2018-09-28

Language has long been considered independent from emotions In the last few years however research has accumulated empirical evidence against this theoretical belief of a purely cognitive based foundation of language In particular through research on emotional word processing it has been shown that processing of emotional words activates emotional brain structures elicits emotional facial expressions and modulates action tendencies of approach and avoidance probably in a similar manner as processing of non verbal emotional stimuli does In addition it has been shown that emotional content is already processed in the visual cortex in a facilitated manner which suggests that processing of emotional language content is able to circumvent in depth semantic analysis Yet this is only one side of the coin Very recent research putting words into context suggests that language may also construe emotions and that by studying word processing one can provide a window to one's own feelings All in all the empirical observations support the thesis of a close relationship between language and emotions at the level of word meaning as a specific evolutionary achievement of the human species As such this relationship seems to be different from the one between emotions and speech where emotional meaning is conveyed by nonverbal features of the voice But what does this relationship between written words and emotions theoretically imply for the processing of emotional information The present Research Topic and its related articles aim to provide answers to this question This book comprises several experimental studies investigating the brain structures and the time course of emotional word processing Included are studies examining the affective core dimensions underlying affective word processing and studies that show how these basic affective dimensions influence word processing in general as well as the interaction between words feelings and expressive behavior In addition new impetus comes from studies that on the one hand investigate how task sublexical and intrapersonal factors influence emotional word processing and on the other hand extend emotional word processing to the domains of social context and self related processing Finally future perspectives are outlined including research on emotion and language acquisition culture and multilingualism In summary this textbook offers scientists from different disciplines insight into the neurophysiological behavioral and subjective mechanisms underlying emotion and language interactions It gives new impulses to existing theories on the embodiment of language and emotion and provides new ways of looking at emotion cognition interactions
