Farmers or Hunter-gatherers? Peter Sutton, Keryn Walshe, 2021-06-16 Australians understanding of Aboriginal society prior to the British invasion from 1788 has been transformed since the publication of Bruce Pascoe s Dark Emu in 2014 It argued that classical Aboriginal society was more sophisticated than Australians had been led to believe because it resembled more closely the farming communities of Europe In Farmers or Hunter gatherers Peter Sutton and Keryn Walshe ask why Australians have been so receptive to the notion that farming represents an advance from hunting and gathering Drawing on the knowledge of Aboriginal elders previously not included within this discussion and decades of anthropological scholarship Sutton and Walshe provide extensive evidence to support their argument that classical Aboriginal society was a hunter gatherer society and as sophisticated as the traditional European farming methods Farmers or Hunter gatherers asks Australians to develop a deeper understanding and appreciation of Aboriginal society and culture

The Languages of Australia R. M. W. Dixon, 1980-07-24 A study of the more than two hundred different Aboriginal languages of Australia Professor Dixon deals first with the general character of these languages and their use and role in Australia today He stresses that they are in no sense primitive languages but have a rich and complex grammar with the many subtle and distinctive features He goes on to demonstrate this in the first ever study of their genetic relationships probable origins and historical development and their grammatical and phonological behaviour This is in many ways a pioneering work and a fundamental one The Press has already published two major scholarly studies by Professor Dixon of individual Australian languages Dyirbal and Yidin He offers here the synthesis that they pointed towards provisional still in many of its details but sufficiently convincing in outline to stimulate the next stage of professional research to provide the general linguist with the kind of survey to the interested Australian something of the extraordinary linguistic heritage of the continent now and for some time past seriously at risk Pintupi Country, Pintupi Self Fred R. Aboriginal Religions in Australia Françoise Dussart, Howard Morphy, 2017-09-08 Over the last 25 years there has been an explosion of interest in the Aboriginal religions of Australia and this anthology provides a variety of recent writings by a wide range of scholars Australian Aboriginal Religions are probably the oldest extant religious systems Over some 50 000 years they have coped with change and re-invented themselves in an astonishingly creative way The Dreaming the mythical time when the Ancestor Spirits shaped the territories of the Aborigines and laid down a moral and ritual law for their occupants is the fundamental religious reality It is the basis of the Aborigines's view of their land or country kinship relationships ritual and art However the Dreaming is not a static principle since it is interpreted in different ways as in the extraordinary movement in contemporary indigenous painting and in attempts at an accommodation with Christianity The contributions of anthropologists cultural historians philosophers of religion and others are included in this anthology which not only guides readers through the literature but also ensures this still largely inaccessible material is available to a wider range of readers and non-specialist students and academics

Giant Despair Meets Hopeful Martha Westwater, 2000-04 A burgeoning literature for young adult readers exists Yet much of it depicts a despairing disillusioned world telling tales of teenagers suffering from family breakdown violence peer pressure sexual abuse and even suicide But such bleakness need not translate into depression and fear for vulnerable adolescents When we look at YA fiction from another perspective what may emerge is a literature of great power an authenticity Julia Kristeva argues that so long as human beings have love we have hope Taking up this theme Martha Westwater reads six YA novelists Aidan Chambers Robert Cormier Kevin Major Jan Mark Katherine Paterson and Patricia Wrightson through Kristevan theory to find a glimmer of hope amidst our cultural crises A welcome addition to the undeservedly sparse literature on Young Adult fiction Publisher's description

Battlers and Billionaires Andrew Leigh, 2024-10-08 Is Australia fair enough And why does inequality matter anyway In Battlers and Billionaires Andrew Leigh weaves together vivid anecdotes interesting history and powerful statistics to tell the story of inequality in this country This is economics writing at its best From egalitarian beginnings Australian inequality rose through the nineteenth century Then we became more equal again with inequality falling markedly from the 1920s to the 1970s Now inequality is returning to the heights of the 1920s Leigh shows that while inequality can fuel growth it also poses dangers to society Too much inequality risks cleaving us into two Australias occupying fundamentally separate worlds with little contact between the haves and the have nots And the further apart the rungs on the ladder of opportunity the harder it is for a kid born into poverty to enter the middle class Battlers and Billionaires sheds fresh light on what makes Australia distinctive and what it means to have and keep a fair go
