1. Double Upholding Palm with Weights This training is used with both arms upholding weight while walking the circle. You may use cement bricks for this exercise. Master Fu Chen Sung (Pa Kua Chang and Chen Family T'ai Chi Ch'uan) would use stone balls for this type of training. Start off with five pounds in each hand and slowly increase the weight as you become comfortable. It is important to relax and use natural strength in order to lift the weight. Feel the weight from the arms root into the chest by pulling your scapulas into your spine. Feel the weight of your spine (and back) root into your hips. Make sure that your ming men is pushed backward. Feel the weight of your hips root into your feet as you walk the circle.

2. Pouncing Lion Palm Training This training is used to strengthen the body's inner structure providing a solid and powerful Splitting Palm. Place the end of a rattan staff against a table (or something solid). The other end is to be placed against your hip. With your left hand hold the staff against your left hip. With your right leg forward, your right palm is placed on top of the staff, extended out in front of you. Follow this sequential order: both toes grab the ground, both thighs squeeze their adductors. Push the ming men back by rolling the hips, intercostals and latissimus muscles pull down, shoulders and scapula compress inward, elbows point downward. Simultaneously squeeze the buttocks, which draws the pelvic cavity upward, as the palm compresses down. The staff is held loosely until it is compressed by the palm. After training, switch arms and legs and continue on the other side.

ineffective for practical self defense they in fact have a long history of combat use Starr argues that most teachers and practitioners of the internal arts have forgotten their rich martial heritage focusing instead on their applicability for health or spiritual practices Starr returns to the roots of the three major internal arts demonstrating the combative principles upon which they were originally based Martial Maneuvers often takes a lighthearted and humorous approach to what can often be challenging material and provides training routines in easy to understand language Numerous photos demonstrate the step by step implementation of fighting techniques teaching readers how to apply them to their own chosen martial disciplines While designed primarily for the internal martial artist the techniques demonstrated in Martial Maneuvers can also benefit and enrich the training of a student of any discipline including karate and kung fu

Internal Martial Arts Nei-gong Bill Bodri, John Newton, 2011 In many old martial arts films you often see a master capable of extraordinary supernormal feats such as being able to move with the speed of wind throw incredibly heavy objects destroy them with a strike stride over water or even fly through the air Are such things possible The Chinese Taoists say yes if the master practiced special exercises to cultivate their inner energy or yang chi qi These practices to cultivate inner power are called nei gong or the internal martial arts and are related to the mastery of the kundalini energies cited in Indian yogic and Buddhist literature which also explains the various superpowers that become possible with its cultivation Many people today want to be able to attain such supernormal skills or they simply want to understand why and how these skills were cultivated so they might be duplicated as best possible Some practitioners of Tai Chi Chuan Hsing Yi Ba Gua Zhang Five Animals Aikido Karate Judo Northern Shaolin and other Kung Fu Wushu traditions have alternatively damaged their bodies from their practice or have reached a training plateau and want some sure methods to break their current limits and bring their martial arts skills to the next level This book explains the major practices on how to properly cultivate nei gong safely to achieve all these objectives The information provided because of its advance nature was usually considered the high secrets of martial arts lineages made available only to the top students who also practiced breathing methods and meditation It explains how to cultivate the mythical martial arts through the initial practice of qi gong and then inner nei gong exercises involving anapana pranayama one pointed visualization kasina meditations and sexual cultivation It provides training information applicable to Iron Palm Iron Shirt or Dim Mak techniques which though incredible in themselves still fall far short of the special supernormal achievements possible after a martial arts student successfully opens up their chakras and chi channels in particular their sushumna central channel and the macrocosmic chi circulation within the body This is the only book in English offering detailed instructions on how to cultivate the Taoist concept of shen which is the stage of awareness attained after cultivating your chi to a high level For purposes of attaining inner gong fu kung fu it also teaches how to cultivate the Six Yogas of Naropa and the Tibetan tantric mantras for opening up the body's central chi channel. In terms of specific long term nei gong methods it stresses visualization and anapana practices which are explained in conjunction with more advanced techniques for dissolving inner energy blockages. Rather than just focusing on internal martial arts kung fu the authors go even a step further also bring forth many rarely discussed modern training principles for peak athletic performance that can be applied to martial arts and provide practical information on various vitamin mineral supplements detoxification routines and bodywork therapies that can help heal martial arts injuries and lead to improved skills even if the nei gong route of internal martial arts energies and gong fu is not mastered. This is a truly unique book quite different than what's normally available for the martial arts tradition because it provides full materials on topics rarely covered elsewhere and reveals not one two or three but a plethora of inner training practices even for qi gong along with what are normally considered their secret training details.
