Identity and the New Psychoanalytic Explorations of Self-organization Mardi Horowitz, 2014-06-05 Advances in science and the humanities have demonstrated the complexity of psychological social and neurological factors influencing identity A contemporary discourse is needed to anchor the concepts required in speaking about identity in present day understanding In Identity and the New Psychoanalytic Explorations of Self organization Mardi Horowitz offers new ways of speaking about parts of self explaining what causes a range of experiences from solidity in grounding the self to disturbances in a sense of identity The book covers many aspects of both the formation and the deconstruction of identity Horowitz examines themes including The sense of identity Social learning Biological learning Identity and self esteem Levels of personality functioning and growth The book clarifies basic questions defines useful terms examines typical identity disturbances and presents a biopsychosocial theory which indicates how schemas operate in conscious and unconscious mental processing The answers to the basic questions lead to improvements in psychotherapy practices as well as teaching and research methods Identity and the New Psychoanalytic Explorations of Self organization will prove fascinating reading for those working in the fields of psychoanalysis psychology psychiatry neuroscience and the social disciplines

The Protean Self Robert Jay Lifton, 1999-11 We are becoming fluid and many sided Without quite realizing it we have been evolving a sense of self appropriate to the restlessness and flux of our time This mode of being differs radically from that of the past and enables us to engage in continuous exploration and personal experiment I have named it the protean self after Proteus the Greek sea god of many forms from The Protean Self The Metaphysics of Self and World Elie Maynard Adams, 1991 A great fissure occurred in Western civilization in the early modern period with the divorce between the humanities and the sciences and the rise of scientific naturalism The Metaphysics of Self and World is a philosophical exploration of the relationship between the individual the culture and the world It is in the author's words a philosophy of the humanities a philosophy of humanity and a philosophy of social reality It explores the implications of a world view that would integrate the perspective of the sciences with humanistic ways of thought E M Adams claims that we do violence to ourselves as human beings by trying to fit into the world as delineated in scientific categories Rejecting cultural subjectivism and scientific naturalism he argues for the irreducibility and validity of the categories of the humanities and for a fully developed humanistic philosophy of self and world In generating this world view he utilizes the humanities as a source of culture therapy in order to close the fissure in Western civilization Author note E M Adams is Kenan Professor of Philosophy Emeritus at the University of North Carolina Chapel Hill He has written numerous books and articles and a festschrift celebrating his work Mind Value and Culture Essays in Honor of E M Adams edited by David Weissbord was published in 1989

Religious Voices in Self-Narratives Marjo Buitelaar, Hetty Zock, 2013-07-31 In present day pluralistic and individualized societies the question of how individuals appropriate religious traditions has become particularly relevant In this volume psychologists anthropologists and historians examine the presence of religious voices in narrative constructions of the self The focus is on the multiple ways religious stories and practices feature in self narratives about major life transitions The contributions explore the ways in which such voices inform the accommodation and interpretation of these transitions In addition to being inspired by Dan McAdams approach to life stories as personal myths that inform us about the quests of individuals for a satisfactory balance between agency and communion most of the contributors have found the theory of the dialogical self developed by Hubert Hermans particularly useful Thus the contributions explore the ways in which identity formation is shaped by internal dialogues between personal and collective voices in the context of the specific constellations of power in which these voices are embedded The volume is divided into three parts addressing theoretical and methodological considerations religious resources in narratives on life transitions and religious positioning in diaspora

Self-Defense Laws of All 50 States, Introduction to Conservation Genetics Richard Frankham, Jonathan D. Ballou, David Anthony Briscoe, 2010 This impressive author team brings the wealth of advances in conservation genetics into the new edition of this introductory text including new chapters on population genomics and genetic issues in introduced and invasive species They continue the strong learning features for students main points in the margin chapter summaries vital support with the mathematics and further reading and now guide the reader to software and databases Many new references reflect the expansion of this field With examples from mammals birds reptiles fish amphibians plants and invertebrates this is an ideal introduction to conservation genetics for a broad audience The text tackles the quantitative aspects of conservation genetics and has a host of pedagogy to support students learning the numerical side of the subject Combined with being up to date its user friendly writing style and first class illustration programme forms a robust teaching package

The Threatened Self Ruth Thibodeau, 1995

Reading from the Underside of Selfhood Lisa E. Dahill, 2009-01-01 Dietrich Bonhoeffer's example of self sacrificing discipleship has for over fifty years inspired Christians around the world in both their resistance to evil and their devotion to Jesus Christ Yet for some readers particularly those who suffer trauma abuse and other forms of violence Bonhoeffer's insistence on self sacrifice on becoming a person for others may prove more harmful than liberating For those already socialized into self abnegation uncritical applications of Bonhoeffer's teachings may reinforce submission rather than resistance to evil This study explores Bonhoeffer's understandings of selfhood and spiritual formation both in his own experience and writings and in light of the role of gender in psycho spiritual development The central constructive chapter creates a mediated conversation between Bonhoeffer and these feminist psychologists on the spiritual formation of survivors of trauma and abuse including not only dimensions of his thinking to be critiqued from this perspective but also important resources he contributes toward a truly liberating Christian spirituality for those on the underside of selfhood The book concludes with suggestions regarding the broader relevance of this study and implications for ministry The insights for spiritual formation developed here provide powerful proof of Bonhoeffer's continuing and concretely contextualized relevance for readers across the full spectrum of human selfhood

Genetic Management of Fragmented Animal and Plant Populations Richard Frankham, Jonathan D. Ballou, Katherine Ralls, Mark Derek Bruce Eldridge, Michele R. Dudash, Charles Barnet Fenster, Robert Cady Lacy, Paul Sunnucks, 2017 One of the greatest unmet challenges in conservation biology is the genetic management of fragmented populations of threatened animal and plant species More than a million small isolated population fragments of threatened species are likely suffering inbreeding depression and loss of evolutionary potential resulting in elevated extinction risks Although these effects can often be reversed by re establishing gene flow between population fragments managers very rarely do this On the contrary genetic methods are used mainly to document genetic differentiation among populations with most studies concluding that genetically differentiated populations should be managed separately thereby isolating them yet further and dooming many to eventual extinction Many small population fragments are going extinct principally for genetic reasons Although the rapidly advancing field of molecular genetics is continually providing new tools to measure the extent of population fragmentation and its genetic consequences adequate guidance on how to use these data for effective conservation is still lacking This accessible authoritative text is aimed at senior undergraduate and graduate students interested in conservation biology conservation genetics and wildlife management It will also be of particular relevance to conservation practitioners and natural resource managers as well as a broader academic audience of conservation biologists and evolutionary ecologists
