Fiction, Crime, and the Feminine Rédouane Abouddahab, 2011-01-18 The form of art called fiction has always been the privileged framework providing the perfect alibi for facing framing and containing the Other s desire and the strange libido attached to violence in other words there is an ambivalent dimension inherent in the scenarios and fantasies we enjoy by proxy Are not the fairy tales of our childhood full of images of death and violence whose fascinating presence is paradoxically meant to make us feel all the more safely tucked up in bed After all the wolf or the Little Red Riding Hood the monstrous killer or the unfortunate victim are but fictitious characters mere shifting positions they are not me therefore thanks to the willing suspension of disbelief process any reading I may shift into their speech or thoughts on the fictional screen a stage both for projection of and protection from such forbidden enjoyments Crime fiction has also for a long time been the genre for such containment Ever since Victorian craniology criminal violence has remained as resistant as ever to scientific measurement even to the more recent techniques of investigation of the brain Where women are concerned they were first and mostly fascinating victims but they also nowadays feature in the role of the criminals adding to the first fascination the mystery of a woman s desire beyond the pale of societal expectations Indeed more and more pieces of crime fiction nowadays refuse to grant the simple pleasures of old what if for example the text refuses to comply to the whodunnit convention What about those stories that instead of closure will diffuse a mist a sense of unrest by their emphasis on the inexplicable lure of violence In other words gone are the days of the satisfaction granted by traditional closure and return to a solidly structured society made safe again by the disposal of the scene of violence But writing as such is also to be taken into consideration and what forcefully determines the writing is not only the historical trauma whose active presence in the fiction cannot be denied but especially some unresolved traumatic event or exclusion that makes one write and through the writing quest bliss but that also makes one renounce the attachment to the inevitably lost bliss Crime Writers Elizabeth Haynes, 2011-01-19 This invaluable resource provides information about and sources for researching 50 of the top crime genre writers including websites and other online resources Crime Writers A Research Guide is an easy to use launch pad for learning more about crime fiction authors including those who write traditional mystery novels suspense novels and thrillers

Investigating Identities, 2009-01-01 Investigating Identities Questions of Identity in Contemporary International Crime Fiction is one of the relatively few books to date which adopts a comparative approach to the study of the genre This collection of twenty essays by international scholars examining crime fiction production from over a dozen countries confirms that a comparative approach can both shed light on processes of adaptation and appropriation of the genre within specific national regional or local contexts and also uncover similarities between the works of authors from very different areas Contributors explore discourse concerning national and historical memory language race ethnicity culture and gender and examine how identity is affirmed and challenged in the crime genre today They reveal a growing tendency towards hybridization and postmodern experimentation and increasing engagement with philosophical enquiry into the epistemological dimensions of investigation Throughout the notion of stable identities is subject to scrutiny While each essay in itself is a valuable addition to existing criticism on the genre all the chapters mutually inform and complement each other in fascinating and often unexpected ways This volume makes an important contribution to the growing field of crime fiction studies and to ongoing debates on questions of identity It will therefore be of special interest to students and scholars of the crime genre identity studies and comparative literature It will also appeal to all who enjoy reading contemporary crime fiction

Crime Fiction and National Identities in the Global Age Julie H. Kim, 2014-04-17 The crime fiction world of the late 1970s with its increasingly diverse landscape is a natural beginning for this collection of critical studies focusing on the intersections of class culture and crime each nuanced with shades of gender ethnicity race and politics The ten new essays herein raise broad and complicated questions about the role of class and culture in transatlantic crime fiction beyond the Golden Age How is class understood in detective fiction other than as a socioeconomic marker Can we distinguish between major British and American class concerns as they relate to crime How politically informed is popular detective fiction in responding to economic crises in Scotland Ireland England and the United States When issues of race and gender intersect with concerns of class and culture does the crime writer privilege one or another factor Do values and preoccupations of a primarily middle class readership get reflected in popular detective fiction      Clues: A Journal of Detection, Vol. 37, No. 1 (Spring 2019) Elizabeth Foxwell, 2019-07-25 For over two decades Clues has included the best scholarship on mystery and detective fiction With a combination of academic essays and nonfiction book reviews it covers all aspects of mystery and detective fiction material in print television and movies As the only American scholarly journal on mystery fiction Clues is essential reading for literature and film students and researchers popular culture aficionados librarians and mystery authors fans and critics around the globe      Food, Consumption, and Masculinity in American Hardboiled Fiction Marta Usiekniewicz, 2023-07-12 Food Consumption and Masculinity in American Hardboiled Fiction draws on three related bodies of knowledge crime fiction criticism masculinity studies and the cultural analysis of food and consumption practices from a critical eating studies perspective In particular this book focuses on food as an analytical category in the study of tough masculinity as represented in American hardboiled fiction Through an examination of six American novels Dashiell Hammett's The Maltese Falcon Raymond Chandler's The Big Sleep Leigh Brackett's No Good from a Corpse Dorothy B Hughes's In a Lonely Place Jim Thompson's The Killer Inside Me and Rex Stout's Champagne for One this book shows how these novels reflect the gradual process of redefining consumption and consumerism in America which traditionally has been coded as feminine Marta Usiekniewicz shows that food and eating also reflect power relations and larger social and economic structures connected to class gender geography sexuality and ability to name just a few      Native American Mystery Writing Mary Stoecklein, 2019-04-04 Though mystery crime and detective fiction are some of the most popular genres in the world little scholarship currently exists regarding Native American writers and how they add new dimensions to this widely read literary form Rather the majority of scholarship examines the depiction of Native characters from the perspective of non Native authors Native American Mystery Writing Indigenous Investigations analyzes how Native authors use the genre to foreground centuries of settler colonial crimes and comment upon the ways in which these acts continue to impact Native individuals and communities today Considering fourteen novels and two made for TV films this book surveys a spectrum of settler colonial crimes the Osage oil murders sexual assault against Native women
