The Smells and Senses of Antiquity in the Modern Imagination Adeline Grand-Clément, Charlotte Ribeyrol, 2021-12-16 This volume tackles the role of smell under explored in relation to the other senses in the modern rejection reappraisal and idealisation of antiquity Among the senses olfaction in particular has often been overlooked in classical reception studies due to its evanescent nature which makes this sense difficult to apprehend in its past instantiations And yet the smells associated with a given figure or social group convey a rich imagery which in turn connotes specific values perfumes scents and foul odours both reflect and mould the ways in which a society thinks or acts Smells also help to distinguish between male and female citizens and strangers and play an important role during rituals The Smells and Senses of Antiquity in the Modern Imagination focuses on the representation of ancient smells both enticing and repugnant in the visual and performative arts from the late 18th century up to the 21st century The individual contributions explore painting sculpture literature and film but also theatrical performance museum exhibitions advertising television series historical reenactment and graphic novels which have all played a part in reshaping modern audiences perceptions and experiences of the antique

Egli,2014 This detailed study on the Sunuwar people one of the many indigenous peoples of Nepal is based on more than twenty years of ethnographic research The book starts with an account of the Sunuwar s indigenous notion of culture mukdum as expressed in social practice With reference to specific social fields a model of the Sunuwar person mainly used to grasp deviations from the ideal way of life is analyzed from the perspective of cultural psychology and the anthropology of the senses The study concludes with an analysis of healing rituals showing that their effect simultaneously results from the ancestral atmosphere produced by the shaman and a kind of domination free discussion among the ritual participants mainly taking place in the pauses of the ritual Thus the shamanic ritual is interpreted as a kind of mediation Series LIT Studies on Asia Asien Forschung und Wissenschaft Vol 6 Subject Asian Studies Anthropology Cultural Studies Psychology Religious Studies Aging, Nutrition and Taste Jacqueline B. Marcus,2019-04-15

Approximately 380 million people worldwide are 60 years of age or older. This number is predicted to triple to more than 1 billion by 2025. Aging Nutrition and Taste: Nutrition, Food Science, and Culinary Perspectives for Aging Tastefully provides research, facts, theories, practical advice, and recipes with full color photographs to feed the rapidly growing aging population healthfully. This book takes an integrated approach utilizing nutrition, food science, and the culinary arts. A significant number of aging adults may have taste and smell or chemosensory disorders, and many may also be considered to be undernourished. While this can be partially attributed to the behavioral, physical, and social changes that come with aging, the loss or decline in taste and smell may be at the root of other disorders. Aging adults may not know that these disorders exist nor what can be done to compensate. This text seeks to fill the knowledge gap. Aging Nutrition and Taste: Nutrition, Food Science, and Culinary Perspectives for Aging Tastefully examines aging from three perspectives: nutritional changes that affect health and well-being, food science applications that address age-specific chemosensory changes, compromised disease states, and health and culinary arts techniques that help make food more appealing to diminishing senses. Beyond scientific theory, readers will find practical tips and techniques, products, recipes, and menus to increase the desirability, consumption, and gratification of healthy foods and beverages as people age. Presents information on new research and theories, including a fresh look at calcium, cholesterol, fibers, omega-3 fatty acids, higher protein requirements, vitamins C, E, D, trace minerals, and phytonutrients, and others specifically for the aging population. Includes easy-to-access and usable definitions in each chapter, guidelines, recommendations, tables, and usable bytes of information for health professionals, those who work with aging populations, and aging people themselves. Synthesizes overall insights in overviews, introductions, and digest summaries of each chapter, identifying relevant material from other chapters, and clarifying their pertinence.

Aristotle's ›Parva naturalia‹ Ronald Polansky, 2024-05-20. Aristotle's Parva naturalia continues the investigation begun in the De anima. The De anima defines the soul and treats its main powers: nutrition, sense, perception, intellection, and locomotion. The Parva naturalia On sense and sensible objects, On memory and recollection, On sleep, On dreams, On divination in sleep, On motion of animals, De motu animalium, On length and shortness of life, and On youth and old age, and respiration attends more to bodily involvement with soul. While each work offers fascinating and challenging insights, there has never been as extensive a commentary covering them together. A reason is that the works have often been viewed as incidental and even inconsistent. The De motu animalium has not typically been included when viewed as an isolated work on animal locomotion. This commentary argues that the treatises considered together and with the De motu among them display a tight sequence manifesting an artful yet easily overlooked design. We reveal many techniques of Aristotle's writing that have received little consideration previously. Our commentary contributes to a unified and comprehensive account of Aristotle's overall project regarding the soul and its connections with the body.
