The Witch of Golgotha Baruyr Pesh-mal-yan,1913 , The Sorceress (La Sorciere): The Witch of the Middle Ages Jules Michelet,2020-09-28 It was said by Sprenger before the year 1500 Heresy of witches not of wizards must we call it for these latter are of very small account And by another in the time of Louis XIII To one wizard ten thousand witches Witches they are by nature It is a gift peculiar to woman and her temperament By birth a fay by the regular recurrence of her ecstasy she becomes a sibyl By her love she grows into an enchantress By her subtlety by a roguishness often whimsical and beneficent she becomes a Witch she works her spells does at any rate lull our pains to rest and beguile them All primitive races have the same beginning as so many books of travel have shown While the man is hunting and fighting the woman works with her wits with her imagination she brings forth dreams and gods On certain days she becomes a seeress borne on boundless wings of reverie and desire The better to reckon up the seasons she watches the sky but her heart belongs to earth none the less Young and flower like herself she looks down toward the enamoured flowers and forms with them a personal acquaintance As a woman she beseeches them to heal the objects of her love In a way so simple and touching do all religion and all science begin Ere long everything will get parcelled out we shall mark the beginning of the professional man as juggler astrologer or prophet necromancer priest physician But at first the woman is everything A religion so strong and hearty as that of Pagan Greece begins with the Sibyl to end in the Witch The former a lovely maiden in the broad daylight rocked its cradle endowed it with a charm and glory of its own Presently it fell sick lost itself in the darkness of the Middle Ages and was hidden away by the Witch in woods and wilds there sustained by her compassionate daring it was made to live anew Thus of every religion woman is the mother the gentle guardian the faithful nurse With her the gods fare like men they are born and die upon her bosom Alas her loyalty costs her dear Ye magian queens of Persia bewitching Circe sublime Sibyl Into what have ye grown and how cruel the change that has come upon you She who from her throne in the East taught men the virtues of plants and the courses of the stars who on her Delphic tripod beamed over with the god of light as she gave forth her oracle to a world upon its knees she also it is whom a thousand years later people hunt down like a wild beast following her into the public places where she is dishonoured worried stoned or set upon the burning coals For this poor wretch the priesthood can never have done with their faggots nor the people with their insults nor the children with their stones The poet childlike flings her one more stone for a woman the cruellest of all On no grounds whatever he imagines her to have been always old and ugly The word witch brings before us the frightful old women of Macbeth But their cruel processes teach us the reverse of that Numbers perished precisely for being young and beautiful The Sibyl foretold a fortune the Witch accomplishes one Here is the great the true difference between them The latter calls forth a destiny conjures it works it out Unlike the Cassandra of old who awaited mournfully the future she foresaw so well this woman herself creates the future Even more than Circe than Medea does she bear in her hand the rod of natural miracle with Nature herself as sister and helpmate Already she wears the features of a modern Prometheus With her industry begins especially that queen like industry which heals and restores mankind As the Sibyl seemed to gaze upon the morning so she contrariwise looks towards the west but it is just that gloomy west which long before dawn as happens among the tops of the Alps gives forth a flush anticipant of day Well does the priest discern the danger the bane the alarming rivalry involved in this priestess of nature whom he makes a show of despising From the gods of yore she has conceived other gods Close to the Satan of the Past we see dawning within her a Satan of the Future Strange and Secret Peoples Carole G.

Silver,2000-10-12 Teeming with creatures both real and imagined this encyclopedic study in cultural history illuminates the hidden web of connections between the Victorian fascination with fairies and their lore and the dominant preoccupations of Victorian culture at large Carole Silver here draws on sources ranging from the anthropological folkloric and occult to the legal historical and medical She is the first to anatomize a world peopled by strange beings who have infiltrated both the literary and visual masterpieces and the minor works of the writers and painters of that era Examining the period of 1798 to 1923 Strange and Secret Peoples focuses not only on such popular literary figures as Charles Dickens and William Butler Yeats but on writers as diverse as Thomas Carlyle Arthur Conan Doyle and Charlotte Mew on artists as varied as mad Richard Dadd Aubrey Beardsley and Sir Joseph Noel Paton and on artifacts ranging from fossil skulls to photographs and vases Silver demonstrates how beautiful and monstrous creatures fairies and swan maidens goblins and dwarfs cretins and changelings elementals and pygmies simultaneously peopled the Victorian imagination and inhabited nineteenth century science and belief Her book reveals the astonishing complexity and fertility of the Victorian consciousness its modernity and antiquity its desire to naturalize the supernatural its pervasive eroticism fused with sexual anxiety and its drive for racial and imperial dominion Canidia, Rome's First Witch Maxwell Teitel Paule,2017-02-09 Canidia is one of the most well attested
