The Art Of The Turkish Tale Vol:

The Art of the Turkish Tale Barbara K. Walker, 1990 In casting them into English Walker has paid particular attention to capturing the flavor and excitement of the Turkish telling while not infringing on the narrator's right to have the tale recreated as he had told it The Beauty power and appeal of the present volume for the general reading public however depends largely upon Barbara Walker's own consummate skill as a teller and re-teller of tales and her commitment to conveying as much of the Turkish performance context as possible In a gesture which is perhaps symptomatic of the reasons for this volume's success Barbara Walker recognizes in the Acknowledgments section each and every tale teller by name all forty of them ranging in age from nine to ninety and coming from the many different walks of life both urban and rural to be found in twenty out of Turkey's seventy four provinces from Mugla to Kars and from Istanbul to Diyarbakir In presenting the works of all these generous bearers of tradition to an English speaking audience she has achieved her aim of opening a small window on the art of the Turkish tale in a volume which stands as a tribute to the art of book making as well Sarah Moment Atis Chair Middle East Studies Program University of Wisconsin Madison President Turkish Studies Association This will stand as a fine quintessential contribution One hears the whispers of the original voices in these versions all of which are artful recast in colloquial rhythms and couched in a style that conveys the substance the shape the spirit and the sumptuousness or the simplicity of the tale Talat Sait Halman Turkey's former Minister of Culture then Ambassador for Cultural Affairs now Professor of Near Eastern Languages and Literatures New York University about Turkey Fabulous Orient Ros Ballaster, 2005-10-20 Narrative moves Stories migrate from one culture to another over vast distances sometimes but their path is often difficult to trace and obscured by time Fabulous Orient looks at the traffic of narrative between Orient and Occident in the eighteenth century and challenges the assumption that has dominated since the publication of Edward Said's Orientalism 1978 that such traffic is always one way Eighteenth century readers in the West came to draw their mental maps of oriental territories and distinctions between them from their experience of reading tales from the Orient In this proto colonial period the English encounter with the East was largely mediated through the consumption of material goods such as silks indigo muslin spices or jewels imported from the East together with the more moral traffic of narratives about the East both imaginary and ethnographic Through analyses of fictional representations including travellers accounts letter narratives such as Letters Writ by a Turkish Spy and popular sequences of tales such as the Arabian Nights Entertainments of four oriental territories Persia Turkey China and India Ros Ballaster demonstrates the ways in which the East came to be understood as a source of story a territory of fable and narrative Fabulous Orient is structured according to territory rather than genre Each section opens by re narrating an oriental story in which a feminine character serves to figure western desire for the territory she represents the courtesan queen of the Ottoman seraglio Roxolana the riddling Chinese princess Turandote and the illusory sati of India Canzade The book goes on to explore the range of fabulous writings relating to each territory in order to illustrate how certain narrative tropes can come to dominate its representation the conflict between the male look and female speech staged in the seraglio in the case of Turkey and Persia the inauthenticity and or dullness associated with China and its products such as porcelain and the illusory dreams that are woven in the space of India and associated with its textile industries This is the first book length study of the oriental tale to appear for almost a century Informed by recent historiographical and literary re assessments of western constructions of the East it develops an original argument about the use of narrative as a form of sympathetic and imaginative engagement with otherness a disinvestment of the self rather than a confident expression of colonial or imperial ambition Social Trauma and Telecinematic Memory Pelin Başcı, 2017-10-24 This book explores responses to authoritarianism in Turkish society through popular culture by examining feature films and television serials produced between 1980 and 2010 about the 1980 coup Envisioned as an interdisciplinary study in cultural studies rather than a disciplinary work on cinema the book advocates for an understanding of popular culture in discerning emerging narratives of nationhood Through feature films and television serials directly dealing with the coup of 1980 the book exposes tropes and discursive continuities such as childhood and the child It argues that these conventional tropes enable popular debates on the modern nation's history and its myths of identity British Critic, Quarterly Theological Review, and Ecclesiastical Record, 1798 The British Critic, 1798
