The Back Nine:

The Back Nine Skip Everitt, Tom Jenkins, John Darr, John Reger, 2012-06-01 When I retire I ll finally get my golf game in shape This is a myth unless you dedicate yourself to a plan for healthy living and a focus on the principles of good golf The myth of better golf in retirement is based on a few faulty assumptions 1 If I play everyday I will get better 2 The absence of work and more control over my time will result in better golf I will be relaxed and stress free 3 My current set of clubs and my old swing will work even better now that I am playing more The truth about building a better game of golf in our later years is based on a very different set of principles not mythical assumptions The principles of improvement are 1 Your life must become a portfolio of living that includes health conditioning positive relationships higher purpose and meaning 2 Your golf game must become a project with goals objectives and specific action items that elevate your game 3 You will need to invest in modern equipment swing analysis and find a local teaching pro to help you build an enduring game I have an admission to make you you the reader and golfer Currently I am at a 15 year low point in my game Two years of cancer treatment and back injury have elevated my handicap from a 5 to an 11 Selfishly the writing of this book is for me However the greater good of book is for you the recent retiree Together we will learn how to have a great back nine The following pages are a blueprint for my recovery and rebuilding of a respectable golf game Perhaps it will serve as your blueprint as well Today is truly the first day of a better game of golf and life on our back nine The Back Nine John Bowling, 2004-12-01

In the front nine of my life my expectations about my golf game were much too high I tried too hard to be like the great golfers I saw on television or read about in the golf magazines I wanted to hit the ball long and fire approach shots that landed near the pin and spun backwards into or near the hole Instead I had a pronounced slice and struggled to exceed 200 yards on my drives Too many of my approach shots didn t even hit the green let alone spin backward into the hole I ve learned as I ve grown older and wiser that you don t have to be good at golf to enjoy it Perfect Practice/Practice
