to achieve it on a global scale covers communities of zero carbon houses and provides inspirational examples of low carbon lifestyles Case studies show how principles are put into successful practice to save energy carbon money and the environment

BuckyWorks J. Baldwin, 1997-08-15 A pleasure to read Architectural Review A wonderful nontechnical introduction to one of this century's most fascinating minds Whole Earth Review Original and valuable because it describes Fuller s original techniques Architectural Record Architect mathematician engineer inventor visionary humanist educator inspirational orator and bestselling author R Buckminster Fuller has been rightly called the 20th century Leonardo da Vinci Written by a fellow inventor who worked with Fuller for more than three decades BuckyWorks is an inspiring celebration of the man his ideas his inventions and his legacy for our future Featuring over 200 photographs and drawings plus dozens of fascinating excerpts from Fuller s lectures and conversations with the author this book offers a breathtaking inside look at one of the truly great minds of our time J BALDWIN is an inventor and teacher who worked under with and for R Buckminster Fuller for more than three decades He served as an editor of the Whole Earth Catalog and the Whole Earth Review for 25 years Eco-Homes Doctor Jenny Pickerill,2016-01-15 It is widely understood that good affordable eco housing needs to be at the heart of any attempt to mitigate or adapt to climate change This is the first book to comprehensively explore eco housing from a geographical social and political perspective It starts from the premise that we already know how to build good eco houses and we already have the technology to retrofit existing housing Despite this relatively few eco houses are being built Featuring over thirty case studies of eco housing in Britain Spain Thailand Argentina and the United States Eco Homes examines the ways in which radical changes to our houses such as making them more temporary using natural materials or relying on manual heating and ventilation systems require changes in how we live As such it argues it is not lack of technology or political will that is holding us back from responding to climate change but deep rooted cultural and social understandings of our way of life and what we expect our houses to do for us Building for a Changing Climate Peter F. Smith,2009 There is now a practically universal consensus that our climate is changing rapidly and as a direct result of human activities While there is extensive debate about what we can do to mitigate the damage we are causing it is becoming increasingly clear that a large part of our resources will have to be directed towards adapting to new climatic conditions with talk of survivability replacing sustainability as the new and most pressing priority Nowhere is this more evident than in the built environment the stage on which our most important interactions with climatic conditions are played out Power and Politics in Sustainable Consumption Research and Practice Cindy Isenhour,Mari Martiskainen,Lucie Middlemiss,2019-03-04 With growing awareness of environmental deterioration atmospheric pollution and resource depletion the last several decades have brought increased attention and scrutiny to global consumption levels However there are significant and well documented limitations associated with current efforts to encourage more sustainable consumption patterns ranging from informational and time constraints to the highly individualizing effect of market based participation This volume featuring essays solicited from experts engaged in sustainable consumption research from around the world presents empirical and theoretical illustrations of the various means through which politics and power influence unsustainable consumption practices policies and perspectives With chapters on compelling topics including collective action behaviour change and the transition movement the authors discuss why current efforts have largely failed to meet environmental targets and explore promising directions for research policy and practice Featuring contributions that will help the reader open up politics and power in ways that are accessible and productive and bridge the gaps with current approaches to sustainable consumption this book will be of great interest to students and scholars of sustainable consumption and the politics of sustainability

Urban Phantasmagorias Iulia Stătică, 2023-11-30 Urban Phantasmagorias examines the legacies of socialist housing in the city of Bucharest during the period of communist rule in Romania The book explores the manner in which the socialist state reconfigured the city through concrete acts of demolition and construction as well as indirectly through legal frameworks aimed at the regulation of women's reproductive agency in an attempt to materialize its idea of modernity It follows the effects of this state agenda with a focus on the period between 1965 and 1989 through an investigation of the transformations representations meanings and uses of domestic spaces The book draws on Walter Benjamin's concept of phantasmagoria which provides a critical framework through which it articulates the dynamic relationship between ideology architecture and everyday practices and reassesses their impact upon individual subjectivity and agency The woman emerges as a central subject of the book upon whom the phantasmagoric effects of the socialist state's modernizing agenda have an acute impact at the level of lived domesticity and everyday life Through a focus on the lived experiences of women the book illuminates the prismatic effect of the state's infrastructural and legal intentions including the ways in which these were subverted through women's lived bodily experiences of the home The book establishes both theoretically and through the concrete case of the city of Bucharest the methodological significance of Benjamin's notion of phantasmagoria as an epistemological approach to a modern communist cityscape Urban Phantasmagorias is an important contribution to scholarship in architectural history and theory urban and gender studies and post socialist and Eastern European studies

Infrastructures in Practice Elizabeth Shove, Frank Trentmann, 2018-09-17 Infrastructures in Practice shows how infrastructures and daily life shape each other Power grids roads and broadband make modern lifestyles possible at the same time their design and day to day operation depends on what people do at home and at work This volume investigates the entanglement of supply and demand It explains how standards and normal ways of living have changed over time and how infrastructures have changed with them Studies of grid expansion and disruption heating systems the internet urban planning and office standards smart meters and demand management reveal this dynamic interdependence This is the first book to examine the interdependence between infrastructures and the practices of daily life It offers an analysis of how new technologies lifestyles and standards become normalised and fall out of use It brings together diverse disciplines history sociology science studies to develop social theories and accounts of how infrastructures and practices constitute each other at different scales and over time It shows how networks and demands are steered and shaped and how social and political visions are woven into infrastructures past present and future Original wide ranging and theoretically informed this book puts the many practices of daily life back into the study of infrastructures The result is a fresh understanding of how resource intensive forms of consumption and energy demand have come about and what is needed to move towards a more sustainable lower carbon future
