Research Libraries, 1987 Aging China Robert Stowe England, 2005-02-28 China the world s most populous nation will enter a period of rapid aging very shortly that will redefine that country Between 2010 and 2040 the portion of people 65 and older will rise from around 7% to between 25 and 30% of the population As China ages can it retain the youthful dynamism now driving it China the world s most populous nation will enter a period of rapid aging very shortly that will redefine that country Between 2010 and 2040 the number of people 65 and older will rise from around 7% to between 25 and 30% of the population As China ages can it retain the youthful dynamism now driving it This book is an effort to try to capture the broad outlines of the significant economic market social and demographic factors that will shape the future of China and the role that aging will play in the whole mix of influences Aging in developed societies and economies has been widely studied In such nations as Japan Germany Italy and Spain for example we know that as populations age their societies decline leaving fewer younger workers to support the growing number of people who will become dependent on costly health care systems or whose basic needs such as food and shelter will need to be subsidized But less work has been done in assessing the potential impact of aging in developing countries where the majority of people may be working poor not middle class as in the case of China As China restructures its economy the old benefits packages previously available to urban workers and not rural workers are being replaced by a patchwork of benefits across a wide range of enterprises      World Development Report 2014 World Bank,2013-10 The World Development Report 2014 examines how improving risk management can lead to larger gains in development and poverty reduction It argues that improving risk management is crucial to reduce the negative impacts of shocks and hazards but also to enable people to pursue new opportunities for growth and prosperity

Aging in the United States and Japan Yukio Noguchi,David A. Wise,2008-04-15 Japanese and American economists assess the present economic status of the elderly in the United States and Japan and consider the impact of an aging population on the economies of the two countries With essays on labor force participation and retirement housing equity and the economic status of the elderly budget implications of an aging population and financing social security and health care in the 1990s this volume covers a broad spectrum of issues related to the economics of aging Among the book s findings are that workers are retiring at an increasingly earlier age in both countries and that as the populations age baby boomers in the United States will face diminishing financial resources as the ratio of retirees to workers sharply increases The result of a joint venture between the National Bureau of Economic Research and the Japan Center for Economic Research this book complements Housing Markets in the United States and Japan 1994 by integrating research on housing markets with economic issues of the aged in the United States and Japan      Nominations of Alicia Munnell, Michael Levy, Jeffrey Shafer, Margaret Milner Richardson, and George Weise United States.
