The Elder Dempster Fleet History:

The Elder Dempster James E. Cowden, John O. C. Duffy, 1986      Guide to the Records of Merseyside Maritime Museum Merseyside Maritime Museum, 1995 The first volume of the guide summarizes the Merseyside Maritime Museum's holdings of records of official organizations such as the Mersey Docks and Harbour Board connected to the history of the Port of Liverpool as well as the records of Liverpool based shipping companies The second volume similar to the first includes a cumulative index for both volumes and covers collections omitted from the first primarily focusing on the human dimension of the Port of Liverpool no 17 p vii      The Trade Makers Peter N. Davies, 2017-10-18 This journal reprints the history of the Elder Dempster company by Peter N Davies from 1852 1972 originally published in 1973 It includes an additional chapter also by Peter Davies on the history of the company from 1973 1989 covering its decline and final years The purpose is to describe and analyse the economic history of the Elder Dempster shipping company and its predecessors plus an account of West African and British economic backgrounds The journal is divided into five parts each concerning a different era in the company's history Part 1 covers the formation of the African Steam Ship Company which would eventually merge and become Elder Dempster Part 2 covers the expansion of Elder Dempster and the partnership with Alfred Lewis Jones Part 3 explores major historical events and their impact on Elder Dempster including the Great War the transition from war to peace and the end of the Royal Mail group Part 4 concerns the establishment of Elder Dempster Lines Limited the emergence of successful rival companies the Second World War and post war reconstruction and prediction for the company for the 1970s and beyond as this part concluded the first edition of the history Part 5 is a retrospective look at the 1970s and 1980s and tracks the decline of Elder Dempster      The History of Steam Navigation John Kennedy, 1903      Ethnographic Collecting and African Agency in Early Colonial West Africa Zachary Kingdon, 2019-02-21 The early collections from Africa in Liverpool's World Museum reflect the city's longstanding shipping and commercial links with Africa's Atlantic coast A principal component of these collections is an assemblage of several thousand artefacts from western Africa that were transported to institutions in northwest England between 1894 and 1916 by the Liverpool steam ship engineer Arnold Ridyard While Ridyard's collecting efforts can be seen to have been shaped by the steamers dynamic capacity to connect widely separated people and places his Methodist credentials were fundamental in determining the profile of his African networks because they meant that he was not part of official colonial authority in West Africa Kingdon's study uncovers the identities of many of Ridyard's numerous West African collaborators and discusses their interests and predicaments under the colonial dispensation Against this background account their agendas are examined with reference to surviving narratives that accompanied their donations and within the context of broader processes of trans imperial exchange through which they forged new identities and statuses for themselves and attempted to counter expressions of British cultural imperialism in the region The study concludes with a discussion of the competing meanings assigned to the Ridyard assemblage by the

Liverpool Museum and examines the ways in which its re contextualization in museum contexts helped to efface signs of the energies and narratives behind its creation

Nigeria and the Death of Liberal England Peter J. Yearwood,2018-07-18 This book shows how a stormy parliamentary debate over the sale of German properties in Nigeria on 8 November 1916 began the process which brought down Asquith and made Lloyd George prime minister The colonial secretary Bonar Law who was also leader of the Conservative Party wanted neutral firms to bid Usually presented as a policy imposed on him by doctrinaire Liberal free traders it was in fact that of the colonial government which hoped that encouraging foreign competition would prevent the Nigerian export economy becoming controlled by a ring of mainly Liverpool firms Seeing itself as the defender of Nigerian interests the Colonial Office endorsed this The large British companies got up an agitation which was taken over by Sir Edward Carson the one significant opposition politician as part of his attack on supposed German influence in high places Law counter attacked by arguing that a supposedly patriotic cause masked the greed of an emergent cartel He succeeded because smaller British and African firms trying to break into the now profitable produce export trade had already painted that picture By defeating Carson in the debate Law became again an effective party leader who hoped to re invigorate the coalition but instead found himself working with Lloyd George to sideline Asquith Based on underused sources and overturning established interpretations the book situates the debate within the context of the development of the Nigerian economy the conflicts between the major firms the role of oils and fats in wartime and the emergence of Nigerian nationalism looks at an allegation of betrayal made against a young Foreign Office clerk Victor Buckley who it was claimed leaked privileged information to agents of the southern States during the American Civil War As a consequence the CSS Alabama narrowly escaped seizure by the British government and proceeded to wage war on American shipping Victor Buckley's background is examined against the hitherto erroneous belief that he was an insignificant member of the foreign office staff The American minister Charles Francis Adams oversees a network of spies endeavoring to prove contravention of The Foreign Enlistment Act The South's agents Captain James D Bulloch and Major Caleb Huse are the prime targets and a battle of wits ensues as Bulloch oversees construction of his ships on Merseyside A member of a prominent City family offers to enlist the help of a relative who he claims holds a confidential position in the Foreign Office The Confederate agents are soon receiving information about the status of Anglo American diplomacy and are able to outwit the Union spies and dispatch arms and supplies to the South Their coup d'état is achieved with the arrival of a message that hurries the Confederate's most formidable warship out of British waters After the escape of the Alabama the government moves to curtail Bulloch's operations When the war ends in 1865 investigations begin into the circumstances surrounding the Alabama's departure As America demands reparation evidence apparently incriminating Victor Buckley is acquired but before the claim reaches its hearing in Geneva diplomatic moves some involving Anglo American Masonic influence result in a treaty and ensure that no allegation is made against any individual member of foreign office staff Queen Victoria anxious to see the Alabama claims settled is spared embarrassment A scandal erupts in the foreign office in 1878 as a freelance clerk Charles Marvin leaks sensitive information to the press and subsequently writes of his experiences revealing much of the ethos of the office pertinent to Buckley's story The writer Arthur Conan Doyle becomes fascinated by Anglo American diplomacy and the Alabama question and soon after joining a London gentlemen's club where Buckley's alleged contact is a member writes a Sherlock Holmes story involving a Foreign Office clerk's apparent betrayal Coincidentally Conan Doyle has been acquainted with Buckley's associate some years earlier and he soon makes a thinly veiled appearance in a fictional work by England's most famous crime writer
