George HAMILTON (Drawing Master.)

The Elements Of Drawing:

The Elements of Drawing John Ruskin, 2015-05-29 I believe that irrespective of differences in individual temper and character the excellence of an artist as such depends wholly on refinement of perception and that it is this mainly which a master or a school can teach so that while powers of invention distinguish man from man powers of perception distinguish school from school All great schools enforce delicacy of drawing and subtlety of sight and the only rule which I have as yet found to be without exception respecting art is that all great art is delicate I am nearly convinced that when once we see keenly enough there is very little difficulty in drawing what we see but even supposing that this difficulty be still great I believe that the sight is a more important thing than the drawing and I would rather teach drawing that my pupils may learn to love Nature than teach the looking at Nature that they may learn to draw
