States And Strangers Refugees And Displacements Of Statecraft Borderlines Min:

States and Strangers Nevzat Soguk, 1999 Looks at the role of refugees in international relations Refugees may flee their country but can they escape the confining defining logic of all the voices that speak for them As refugees multiply in our troubled world more and more scholars studies and pundits focus on their plight Most of these analyses says Nevzat Soguk start from a model that shares the assumptions manifested in traditional definitions of citizen nation and state Within this hierarchy he argues a refugee has no place to go States and Strangers questions this paradigm particularly its vision of the territoriality of life A radical retheorization of the refugee from a Foucauldian perspective the book views the international refugee regime not as a simple tertiary response arising from the practice of states regarding refugee problems but as itself an aspect of the regimentation of statecraft The attendant discourse negates the multiplicity of refugee events and experience by assigning the refugee an identity someone without the citizen s grounding within a territorial space the state renders him voiceless and deprives him of representation and protection States and Strangers asks how this happens and how it can be avoided Using historical archival research and interpretive strategies drawn from a genealogical approach Soguk considers the role of the refugee in the emergence and maintenance of the sovereign territorial state from the late seventeenth century to contemporary times ISBN 0 8166 3166 2 Cloth jacket 00 00 62 95x 340 Pages 5 7 8 x 9 March Borderlines Series volume 11 Translation inquiries University of Minnesota Press Displacement and Dispossession in the Modern Middle East Dawn Chatty, 2010-03-08 Dispossession and forced migration in the Middle East remain even today significant elements of contemporary life in the region Dawn Chatty s book traces the history of those who as a reconstructed Middle East emerged at the beginning of the twentieth century found themselves cut off from their homelands refugees in a new world with borders created out of the ashes of war and the fall of the Ottoman Empire As an anthropologist the author is particularly sensitive to individual experience and how these experiences have impacted on society as a whole from the political social and environmental perspectives Through personal stories and interviews within different communities she shows how some minorities such as the Armenian and Circassian communities have succeeded in integrating and creating new identities whereas others such as the Palestinians and the Kurds have been left homeless within impermanent landscapes Subversive Property Sarah Keenan, 2014-08-13 This book explores the relationship between space subjectivity and property in order to invert conventional socio legal understandings of property Sarah Keenan demonstrates that new political possibilities for property may be unveiled by thinking about property in terms of space and belonging rather than exclusion Drawing on feminist and critical race theory this book shifts focus away from the propertied subject and on to the broader spaces in and through which the propertied subject is located Using case studies such as analyses of compulsory leases under Australia s Northern Territory Intervention and lesbian asylum cases from a range of jurisdictions Keenan argues that these spaces consist of networks of relations that revolve around belonging not just belonging between subject and object as property is traditionally understood but also the less explored relation of belonging between the part and the whole This book therefore offers a conceptually useful way of analysing a wide range of socio legal issues It will be of relevance to those working in the area of property and legal geography but also to those with more general interests in socio legal studies social and political theory postcolonial studies critical race studies and gender and sexuality studies

Migration, Civil Society and Global Governance Carl-Ulrik Schierup, Branka Likic-Brboric, Raúl Delgado Wise, Gülay Toksöz, 2020-06-29 How do the United Nations international organizations governments corporate actors and a wide variety of civil society organizations and regional and global trade unions perceive the root causes of migration global inequality and options for sustainable development This is one of the most pertinent political questions of the 21st century This comprehensive collection examines the development of an emerging global governance on migration with the focus on spaces roles strategies and alliance making of a composite transnational civil society engaged in issues of rights and the protection of migrants and their families It reveals the need to strengthen networking and convergence among movements that adopt different entry points to the same struggle from fighting managed migration to contesting corporate control of food and land The authors examine the opportunities and challenges faced by civil society in its endeavour to promote a rights based approach within international and intergovernmental fora engaged in setting up a global compact for the management of migration such as the Global Forum for Migration and Development and in other global policy spaces Chapters 1 3 and 6 of this book are freely available as downloadable Open Access PDFs at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 license Chapters 1 and 6 and a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND Chapter 3

Security and Politics in South Africa Peter C. J. Vale, 2003 Exploring how the region is changing today as transnational solidarity and a single regional economy remove the distinctions between national and international politics he asks whether South African domination can finally be overcome and considers what sort of cosmopolitan political arrangement will be appropriate for southern Africa in the new century

Callahan, 2004 In the 1990s Greater China became the subject of debate as the site of either the danger of the China threat or the promise of Confucian capitalism William A Callahan argues that Greater China presents challenges not only to economic and political order but also to international relations theory In fact Greater China though absent from geopolitical maps and international law is very much present in economic and cultural exchange and exemplifies the contingent state of international politics Callahan deconstructs the mainstream geopolitical and political economic understandings of Greater China tracing its emergence through an ethnographic analysis of four political problems in East Asia the South China Sea disputes Sino Korean relations the return of Hong Kong and cross straits relations Callahan shows how bureaucrats outlaws tycoons academics workers politicians and hooligans alike produce Greater China through networks of relations in local national regional global and transnational space Finally Contingent States reveals how each of the problems provoked theoretical innovations that depart from standard conceptions of sovereignty democracy and the nation state William A Callahan is senior lecturer of international politics and deputy director of the Center for Contemporary Chinese Studies at the University of Durham England and the author of Imagining Democracy Reading The Events of May in Thailand and Pollwatching Elections and Civil Society in Southeast Asia Identities, Borders, Orders, 2001 Managing Displacement Jennifer Hyndman, 2000 The Subject of Coexistence Louiza Odysseos, Odysseos traces the institutional neglect of coexistence to the ontological commitments of international relations as a modern social science predicated on conceptions of modern subjectivity Whose Hunger? Jenny Edkins, 2000 We see famine and look for the likely causes poor food distribution unstable regimes caprices of weather A technical problem we tell ourselves one that modern social and natural science will someday resolve To the contrary Jenny Edkins responds in this book Famine in the contemporary world is not the antithesis of modernity but its symptom A critical investigation of hunger famine and aid practices in international politics Whose Hunger shows how the forms and ideas of modernity frame our understanding of famine and consequently shape our responses Postcolonial Insecurities Sankaran Krishna, 1999 Native to the Nation Allaine Cerwonka, 2004 In a world increasingly marked by migration and dislocation the question of displacement and of establishing a sense of belonging has become ever more common and ever more urgent But what of those who stay in place How do people who remain in their place of origin or ancestral homeland rearticulate a sense of connection of belonging when ownership of the territory they occupy is contested Focusing on Australia Allaine Cerwonka examines the physical and narrative spatial practices by which people reclaim territory in the wake of postcolonial claims to land by indigenous people and new immigration of foreigners As a multicultural postcolonial nation whose claims to land until recently were premised on the notion of the continent as empty terra nullius Australia offers an especially rich lens for understanding the reterritorialization of the nation state in an era of globalization To this end Native to the Nation provides a multisited ethnography of two communities in Melbourne the Fitzroy Police Station and the East Melbourne Garden Club allowing us to see how bodies are managed and nations physically constructed in everyday confrontations and cultivations Allaine Cerwonka is assistant professor of women s studies and political science at Georgia State University
