Beryl Pilkington,2015-07-23 This book focuses on the social and societal context of women s mental health Drawing from multidisciplinary perspectives and scholarship it pays particular attention to how women s mental health is experienced at the personal level yet it is influenced by their relationships and interacts with the larger societal context such as prevailing gender equality policies income distribution role burden peace and security Specific attention is given to the positive aspects of women s mental health such as agency resilience and how women s personal relations across diverse domains such as family work neighbourhoods are constructed and influenced by and in turn influence broader societal structures policies opportunities A unique feature of this book is that at the end of each chapter there is a Response section written by a non academic such as a community member practitioner or policy maker in which the invited authors respond to the chapter texts in the form of narrative poetry and or prose according to their various backgrounds interests and experiences

Gender, Nutrition, and the Human Right to Adequate Food Anne C. Bellows, Flavio L.S. Valente, Stefanie Lemke, María Daniela Núñez Burbano de Lara, 2015-12-07 This book introduces the human right to adequate food and nutrition as evolving concept and identifies two structural disconnects fueling food insecurity for a billion people and disproportionately affecting women children and rural food producers the separation of women s rights from their right to adequate food and nutrition and the fragmented attention to food as commodity and the medicalization of nutritional health Three conditions arising from these disconnects are discussed structural violence and discrimination frustrating the realization of women s human rights as well as their private and public contributions to food and nutrition security for all many women s experience of their and their children s simultaneously independent and intertwined subjectivities during pregnancy and breastfeeding being poorly understood in human rights law and abused by poorly regulated food and nutrition industry marketing practices and the neoliberal economic system s interference both with the autonomy and self determination of women and their communities and with the strengthening of sustainable diets based on democratically governed local food systems The book calls for a social movement led reconceptualization of the right to adequate food toward incorporating gender women s rights and nutrition based on the food sovereignty framework

Feminist Climate Policy

in Industrialised States Susan Buckingham,Martin Hultman,Gunnhildur Lily Magnusdottir,Karen Morrow,2025-08-22

Feminist Climate Policy in Industrialised States explores ways in which policymakers can overcome institutional barriers and conventions in pursuit of the radical changes necessary for a gender just climate emergency response In 2021 the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change acknowledged that addressing the climate emergency must involve social justice and equality Feminist approaches to decision making policy making community organising and their underpinning methodologies can enable this The authors draw critically on case studies research and interviews with feminist practitioners legislators and leaders who have implemented significant changes to signal how change might be achieved and ask what lessons can be drawn The book posits that we need to ultimately move beyond the gender mainstreaming and gender equality issues which have been integrated into existing and failing structures to more transformative feminist approaches It concludes by identifying key strands of feminist oriented praxis that offer the potential to expedite responses to climate change across multiple levels of governance With industrialised states shifting rightwards to a politics which diminishes the importance and urgency of gender equality diversity human rights and the need for climate action this volume will inspire guide and provide tools for policymakers politicians community activists academics and students to take transformative action to address the climate emergency The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has
