Transnationalism and Resistance: Experience and Experiment in Women's Writing Adele Parker, Stephenie Young, 2013 This study presents a unique collection of essays which focus on the relationships among form aesthetics and transnational women's writing produced in recent years. The essays in this volume treat literary works from diverse cultures and geographies concentrating on the intersections of theory and literature. This results in a wide spectrum of identities and texts including the work of Swedish poet Aase Berg, the Indian translation market, the Chicana novel, creative non-fiction by Croatian writer Dubravka Ugrešić and multilingual hybrid texts by Theresa Hak Kyung Cha in order to provide a framework for an overarching theory of transnationalism as it interacts with newer paradigms of gendered identity and the new forms of literature to which they contribute. Transnationalism and Resistance offers a multifaceted approach to transnational studies and constitutes a cogent analysis of the ways in which women's writing informs contemporary global literary production. This volume is of interest for scholars in women's studies, literature, the social sciences, cultural studies and all other fields that take an interest in writing that addresses contemporary global issues.

The Transcultural Turn Lucy Bond, Jessica Rapson, 2014-04-01. This edited collection makes a progressive intervention into the interdisciplinary field of memory studies with a series of essays drawn from diverse theoretical, practical and cultural backgrounds. The most seminal critical development within memory studies in recent years has arguably been the turn towards transculturalism. This movement engenders a series of methodologies that posit remembrance as a fluid process in which commemorative tropes work to inform the representation of diverse events and traumas beyond national or cultural boundaries transcending but not negating spatial, temporal and ideational differences. Examining a wide range of historical and cultural contexts, the essays in this collection focus on the dialogues that shape processes of remembrance between and beyond borders, critiquing the problems and possibilities inherent in current discourses in memorial practice and theory as they approach the challenge of transculturalism.

Memory, the City and the Legacy of World War II in East Central Europe Uilleam Blacker, 2019-06-27. After the Second World War, millions of people across Eastern Europe, displaced as a result of wartime destruction, deportations and redrawing of state boundaries, found themselves living in cities that were filled with the traces of the foreign cultures of the former inhabitants. In the immediate post-war period, these traces were not acknowledged; the new inhabitants went along with official policies of oblivion, the national narratives of new post-war regimes and the memorializing of the victors. In time, however, and increasingly over recent decades, the former other pasts have been embraced and taken on board as part of local cultural memory. This book explores this interesting and increasingly important phenomenon. It examines official ideologies, popular memory, literature, film, memorialization and tourism to show how other pasts are being incorporated into local cultural memory. It relates these developments to cultural theory and argues that the relationship between urban space, cultural memory and identity in Eastern Europe is increasingly becoming a question not only of cultural politics but also of consumption and choice alongside a tendency towards the cosmopolitanization of memory.

Double Exposure Olga Shevchenko, 2017-09-08. Over the past decade, historians and sociologists have increasingly used visual materials, in particular photographs, in their work. This volume brings together historians, sociologists, anthropologists and media and visual scholars to articulate how photography as a practice and as a visual medium can provide insights into national memory collective identities and the historical imagination This collection allows the reader to trace parallel conceptual developments occurring in the sociology and anthropology of memory and in the history and theory of photography and to illustrate the unique angles of vision these disciplines offer Photographic images commonly accompany historical accounts from documentaries to family scrapbooks and since the early days of commercial photography pictures have been viewed as tools to capture memories Later critical writing has challenged this equation by inverting it photos along with other archival practices were often viewed as falling short of their supposed function as vessels of memory and at times even denounced as devices that distorted memories How does photography participate in the formation and maintenance of collective identities and shared memory discourses from the family to the nation Furthermore how can we begin to conceptualize photography s effects on the historical imagination of individuals and groups Double Exposure endeavors to answer these questions by calling attention to the variety of contexts in which images circulate and to the narratives from which they spring and which they in turn shape This is the latest volume in Transaction s Memory and Narrative series
