Strengthening The Poor What We Have Learned Us Third World Policy Perspectives No 1:

The World Bank and Non-Governmental Organizations P. Nelson, 1995-10-27 This book assesses the World Bank's interaction with non governmental organizations NGOs in projects policy dialogue and elsewhere Based on extensive project documents public and private policy statements and interviews the author identifies central organizational barriers to greater collaboration and accountability and links these to the international political economy of the World Bank The author suggests guidelines for judging organizational change in the World Bank reviews opportunities and dangers for NGOs in relating with major aid donors and discusses agenda and strategy

Food Security Assessment Shahla Shapouri, 1999

Non-Governmental Organisations - Performance and Accountability Michael Edwards, David Hulme, 2014-03-18 The last decade has seen some significant changes in international development and in the status of non governmental organisations operating in the field Not only has the number of NGOs virtually doubled many of them have seen a considerable growth in their budgets and have grown closer to governments and official aid agencies NGOs are acknowledged by many to be more effective agents of development than governments or commercial interests even as a magic bullet for development problems Despite these positive trends the real impact of the NGO sector is not well documented This is partly because NGO performance assessment and accountability methods are weak and partly because NGOs are caught up increasingly in the world of official aid which pushes them towards certain forms of evaluation at the expense of others This unique book takes a hard and critical look at these issues and describes how NGOs can and must improve the way they measure and account for their performance if they are to be truly effective

A World without Famine? John Toye, Helen O'Neill, 1998-03-15 The proceedings of the Development Studies Association conference held in Dublin on the 150th anniversary of the Great Irish Famine examine the historical background and the reasons why the spectre of famine continues to haunt much of the developing world today Set in the context of the concepts of food security and insecurity it emphasises our moral responsibility to act collectively and to tackle less dramatic problems of food insecurity

Getting Biodiversity Projects to Work Thomas O. McShane, Michael P. Wells, 2004 Few aspects of American military history have been as vigorously debated as Harry Truman's decision to use atomic bombs against Japan In this carefully crafted volume Michael Kort describes the wartime circumstances and thinking that form the context for the decision to use these weapons surveys the major debates related to that decision and provides a comprehensive collection of key primary source documents that illuminate the behavior of the United States and Japan during the closing days of World War II Kort opens with a summary of the debate over Hiroshima as it has evolved since 1945 He then provides a historical overview of the events in question beginning with the decision and program to build the atomic bomb Detailing the sequence of events leading to Japan's surrender he revisits the decisive battles of the Pacific War and the motivations of American and Japanese leaders Finally Kort examines ten key issues in the discussion of Hiroshima and guides readers to relevant primary source documents scholarly books and articles

African Rain Forest Ecology and Conservation William Weber, Lee J. T. White, Lisa Naughton-Treves, Amy Vedder, 2001-01-01 Extending from west Africa to Madagascar from the vast lowland Congo Basin to the archipelago of forest islands on its eastern rim the African rain forest is surpassed in size only by the Amazon This book sheds light on the current efforts to understand and conserve the African rain forest an area in need of urgent action to save its biological wealth cultural heritage and economic potential Written by conservation scientists and practitioners based in the African rain forest the book offers a multidisciplinary perspective that integrates many biological and social sciences Early chapters trace the forces from paleoecological factors to recent human actions that have shaped the African forest environment The next chapters discuss the dominant biological patterns of species ranging from the distinctive elephants gorillas and okapi to the less well known birds butterflies and amphibians Other chapters focus on how such different groups as hunter gatherers forest farmers bushmeat hunters recent immigrants and commercial foresters have used the forests Several authors stress the need for tighter links between research and conservation action The final section draws lessons from the collective experience of those working in an Africa wracked by political strife and economic hardship Striking a Balance Alan Fowler, 2013-10-11 At a time of rapid global change development NGOs are having to scale up their impact diversify their activities respond to long term crises and improve their performance on all fronts Striking a Balance offers both analysis and a practical guide to how NGOs can fulfil these demanding expectations Written for all those involved with NGO work the book describes the objectives of sustainable people centred development and the process required to achieve it focusing on the five factors which determine effectiveness suitable organisational design competent leadership and human resources appropriate external relationships mobilisation of high quality finance and the measurement of performance coupled to learning for leverage In each the book explains the capacities needed and how they can be assessed and improved Effectiveness calls for NGOs which retain their non profit values establish the right type of Professionalism manage dilemmas and balance choices to continually reflect the priorities rights and needs of those who give them legitimacy people who are poor and marginalised This book provides a reference of current and future practices which will help NGOs to do so Population Policy Robert Cassen, 1994 Access to safe abortion remains on the agenda Quality must be improved and a range of methods provided Population policies must also address underlying causes of high fertility Such programs would be directed to socioeconomic change improved child survival increased female education and increased opportunities for employment and income generation A final component of population policies emphasizes delayed marriage and the age of childbearing and increased spacing between births Population issues are primarily ethical issues about what kind of world people want to live in and the living conditions Political will and the effectiveness of policy options will determine future actions Donor agencies should agree to devote 4% of concessional aid to population activities including HIV AIDS prevention and reproductive health Social development assistance should also be increased Agricultural Extension for Women
