The New Public Service Janet V. Denhardt, Robert B. Denhardt, 2015-03-12 The New Public Service Serving not Steering provides a framework for the many voices calling for the reaffirmation of democratic values citizenship and service in the public interest It is organized around a set of seven core principles 1 serve citizens not customers 2 seek the public interest 3 value citizenship and public service above entrepreneurship 4 think strategically act democratically 5 recognize that accountability isn't simple 6 serve rather than steer and 7 value people not just productivity The New Public Service asks us to think carefully and critically about what public service is why it is important and what values ought to guide what we do and how we do it It celebrates what is distinctive important and meaningful about public service and considers how we might better live up to those ideals and values The revised fourth edition includes a new chapter that examines how the role and significance of these New Public Service values have expanded in practice and research over the past 15 years Although the debate about governance will surely continue for many years this compact clearly written volume both provides an important framework for a public service based on citizen discourse and the public interest and demonstrates how these values have been put into practice It is essential reading for students and serious practitioners in public administration and public policy

a Context of Governance and New Public Management Annie Hondeghe, European Group of Public Administration, 1998
 Ethics and accountability have become important themes for modern government as in most of the countries there is a severe crisis of legitimacy Increasingly there is a feeling that performance management alone will not solve this crisis Citizens also expect from politicians and public servants ethical responsible conduct As to the ethics however there is a problem Governance and new public management have raised new problems which cannot be solved by referring to the traditional bureaucratic ethics Devolution and decentralisation processes have enhanced the responsibility of public servants The increase of transparency and openness and the service orientation of public organisations have challenged the traditional values of discretion and equality before the rule The growing interaction between the public and the private sector have raised the question of integrity In light of these developments it is important to update the ethical system or reversibly the traditional values of the public service can question some actual evolutions in government A Near Century of Public Service in New Orleans Hugh Mercer Blain, 1927 Public Service Management ,1913 Public Service ,1907
