The Mysterious Image:

The Mysterious Image Carolyn Keene, 1985 Image and Imagination in the Phenomenology of Religious Experience Martin Nitsche, Olga Louchakova-Schwartz, 2023 While human beings have probably always been fascinated by images we live in an image obsessed age in which images powerfully shape our lives The writers in this volume are keenly attentive to the ways in which we all are both image bearers and image makers Although their reflections often arise from and relate explicitly to religious imagery their explorations have much wider implications They delve deeply into such issues as the ways in which images both reveal and conceal the ways in which images are interpreted and the ways in which we use images to define ourselves and tell our stories This is a powerful volume full of thought provoking analyses of the phenomenon of the image and its role in human being in the world Topics such as embodiment mysticism ritual touch creation and suffering are explored with sensitivity nuance and insight In short the authors show us a great deal about how images embody whatever it is we take to be sacred Bruce Ellis Benson University of Nottingham This volume presents new findings on religious images in their relationship to appearance and phenomenality to being transcendence liminality reduction original self giving evidence and other topics of regressive and constitutive phenomenology Drawing on Christian Islamic and cross cultural folk testimony the volume creates an incisive reference that opens new avenues for phenomenological research Image of the Sea Howard F. Isham, 2004 This book explores the unprecedented surge or oceanic feeling in the aesthetic expression of the romantic century As secular thought began to displace the certainties of a sacral universe the oceans that give life to our planet offered a symbol of eternity rooted in the experience of nature rather than Biblical tradition Images of the sea permeated the minds of the early Romantics became a significant ingredient of romantic expression and continued to emerge in the language literature art and music of the nineteenth century These pages document the evidence for this oceanic consciousness in some of the most creative minds of that century Images Paul Roberts, 2003-03 Paris at the turn of the 20th century was obsessed with the interrelations of the arts It was a time when artists and writers spoke of poetry as music sounds as colors and paintings as symphonies The music of Claude Debussy with its unique textures and dazzling colors was the perfect counterpart to the bold new styles of painting in France Paul Roberts probes the sources of Debussy's artistic inspiration relating the impressionist titles to the artistic and literary ferment of the time He also draws on his own performing experience to touch on all the principal technical problems for a performer of Debussy's piano music His many suggestions about interpreting the music will be particularly valuable to performers as well as listeners Confronting Images Georges Didi-Huberman, 2005 According to Didi Huberman visual representation has an underside in which intelligible forms lose clarity and defy rational understanding Art historians he contends fail to engage this underside and he suggests that art historians look to Freud's concept of the dreamwork a mobile process that often involves substitution and contradiction From Paris to Pompeii Göran Blix, 2013-09-04 In the early nineteenth century as amateur archaeologists excavated Pompeii Egypt Assyria and the first prehistoric sites a myth arose of archaeology as a magical science capable of unearthing and reconstructing worlds thought to be irretrievably lost This timely myth provided an urgent antidote to the French anxiety of amnesia that undermined faith in progress and it armed writers from Chateaubriand and Hugo to Michelet and Renan with the intellectual tools needed to affirm the indestructible character of the past From Paris to Pompeii reveals how the nascent science of archaeology lay at the core of the romantic experience of history and shaped the way historians novelists artists and the public at large sought to cope with the relentless change that relegated every new present to history In postrevolutionary France the widespread desire to claim that no being city culture or language was ever definitively erased ran much deeper than mere nostalgic and reactionary impulses G ran Blix contends that this desire was the cornerstone of the substitution of a weak secular form of immortality for the lost certainties of the Christian afterlife Taking the iconic city of Pompeii as its central example and ranging widely across French romantic culture this book examines the formation of a modern archaeological gaze and analyzes its historical ontology rhetoric of retrieval and secular theology of memory before turning to its broader political implications Philosophers Explore The Matrix Christopher Grau,2005
