He Was Some Kind of a Man Roderick McGillis, 2011-04-08 He Was Some Kind of a Man Masculinities in the B Western explores the construction and representation of masculinity in low budget western movies made from the 1930s to the early 1950s These films contained some of the mid twentieth century s most familiar names especially for youngsters cowboys such as Roy Rogers Hopalong Cassidy and Red Ryder The first serious study of a body of films that was central to the youth of two generations He Was Some Kind of a Man combines the author s childhood fascination with this genre with an interdisciplinary scholarly exploration of the films influence on modern views of masculinity McGillis argues that the masculinity offered by these films is less one dimensional than it is plural perhaps contrary to expectations Their deeply conservative values are edged with transgressive desire and they construct a male figure who does not fit into binary categories such as insider outsider or masculine feminine Particularly relevant is the author s discussion of George W Bush as a cowboy and how his aspirations to cowboy ideals continue to shape American policy This engagingly written book will appeal to the general reader interested in film westerns and contemporary culture as well as to scholars in film studies gender studies children s literature and auto biography

this figure challenges us to rethink Europe and its core Enlightenment values citizenship justice ethics liberty tolerance and hospitality in a post national context of ephemerality volatility and contingency that finds people desperately looking for firmer markers of identity The book argues that a compelling case can be made for re orienting the study of contemporary European cinema around the figure of the migrant viewed both as a symbolic figure representing post national citizenship urbanization the gap between ethics and justice and as a figure occupying an increasingly central place in European cinema in general rather than only in what is usually called migrant and diasporic cinema By drawing attention to the structural and affective affinities between the experience of migrants and non migrants Europeans and non Europeans Trifonova shows that it is becoming increasingly difficult to separate stories about migration from stories about life under neoliberalism in general
