Excerpt from St George and St Michael A Novel It was the middle of autumn and had rained all day Through the lozenge panes of the wide oriel window the world appeared in the slowly gathering dusk not a little dismal The drops that clung trickling to the dim glass added rain and gloom to the landscape beyond whither the eye passed as if vaguely seeking that help in the distance which the dripping hollyhocks and sodden sunflowers bordering the little lawn or the honeysuckle covering the wide porch from which the slow rain dropped ceaselessly upon the pebble paving below could not give steepy slopes hedge divided into small fields some green and dotted with red cattle others crowded with shocks of bedraggled and drooping corn which looked suffering and patient The room to which the window having this prospect belonged was large and low with a dark floor of uncarpeted oak It opened immediately upon the porch and although a good fire of logs blazed on the hearth was chilly to the sense of the old man who with his feet on the skin of a fallow deer sat gazing sadly into the flames which shone rosy through the thin hands spread out before them About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
