Division of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, 1967 Stabilization of Polymers and Stabilizer Processes, 1968 Stabilization of Polymers and Stabilizer Processes American Chemical Society, 1968 Aging and Stabilization of Polymers M. B. Neiman, 2012-12-06 The need for a broad development of the production of polymer materials has become evident All these materials are subject to various types of aging destruction hence stabilizers which permit the storage reprocessing and use of polymer materials without any appreciable change in their properties must be introduced into them In recent years this problem of stabilizing polymers has attracted the attention of many scientists and technologists both in the USSR and abroad The scientific basis of the foreign studies will be found in a number of theoretical premises but chiefly the theory of chain reactions with unbranched chains In the Soviet Union the concepts of Academician N N Semenov on chain reactions with degenerate branches have become the starting point of theoretical studies of the stabilization and destruction of polymers Soviet scientists have developed a theory of critical concentrations of antioxidants and have shown that the processes of stabilization have a very complex chemical character The nature of the polymers themselves greatly affects these processes and consequently different stabilizers are required for polymers of different structures In addition it has been shown that the antioxidants used thus far can not only cause chain termination but can also initiate oxidation and give rise to degenerate branches Stabilization of Polymers and Stabilizer Processes Norbert A. Stabilization of Polymers and Stabilizer Processes Norbert A. J. Platzer, 1968 Handbook of Polymer Degradation S. McKetta Jr, 1977-02-01 Written by engineers for engineers with over 150 International Editorial Advisory Board members this highly lauded resource provides up to the minute information on the chemical processes methods practices products and standards in the chemical and related industries Polymer Products and Chemical Processes Richard A. Pethrick, Eli M. Pearce, Gennady E. Zaikov, 2013-09-25 This new volume presents leading edge research in the rapidly changing and evolving field of polymer science as well as on chemical processing The topics in the book reflect the diversity of research advances in the production and application of modern polymeric materials and related areas focusing on the preparation characterization and applications of polymers Also covered are various manufacturing techniques The book will help to fill the gap between theory and practice in industry Stabilization of Polymers and Stabilizer Processes American Chemical Society.
