Environmental History in the Pacific World J.R. McNeill,2022-03-01 This volume brings together a set of key articles from the last 30 years pertaining to the environmental history of the Pacific basin It aims to treat the islands and waters of the Pacific as well as the lands around the Rim from New Zealand to Japan to California to Chile and is the first work of environmental history to take this inclusive view of the Pacific basin The focus is mainly on recent centuries but as environmental history requires at times the work also takes the very long view of millennia Several of the articles seek to bring a broad Pacific perspective to bear on their subjects while others use Pacific basin examples to try to establish broader theoretical points of interest to all who are drawn to the study of the interactions between nature and culture The book includes a bibliography of Pacific basin environmental history and an introduction that aims to sketch the contours and possible future directions of the field

Asia's Environmental Crisis Michael C. Howard,2019-04-11 This book focuses on the political economy of the environment in Asia examining the economic and political forces that have generated the problems the political efforts to find solutions and the economic and political contexts of proposed solutions

Southeast Asia in the New World Order Bruce Burton,David Wurfel,2016-07-27 This multi authored book looks at one of the most dynamic regions of the Third World within the context of the rapidly changing international system of the 1990s Among the many themes it explores are ASEAN s new political roles and new modes of economic cooperation the growing importance of ecological and human rights issues the policies of the major external powers towards the region the Cambodian and Spratly conflicts and the relevance of Southeast Asian experience in the New World Order to the ongoing theoretical debates about democracy the market the state and multilateralism

Counting the Costs Jonathan Rigg,1995 Written by an international panel of specialists on Thailand who share a common concern for the environment this volume examines the causes and consequences of environment change both in the countryside and the urban areas of the Kingdom The papers however in no sense reflect a common view the authors embrace contrasting environmental ideologies in discussing a wide range of concerns These include the role of Buddhism and tourism in promoting sustainable development environmental systems of thought and action the practicalities of water pollution control in Bangkok and the Gulf of Thailand and the changing bases of life and livelihood among the hill peoples of the North The environment as an issue of concern is now important phase of assimilation interpretation prescription and action The papers in this volume reflect this change

Timber Booms and Institutional Breakdown in Southeast Asia Michael L. Ross, 2001-01-08 Scholars have long studied how institutions emerge and become stable But why do institutions sometimes break down In this book Michael L Ross explores the breakdown of the institutions that govern natural resource exports in developing states He shows that these institutions often break down when states receive positive trade shocks unanticipated windfalls Drawing on the theory of rent seeking he suggests that these institutions succumb to a problem he calls rent seizing the predatory behavior of politicians who seek to supply rent to others and who purposefully dismantle institutions that restrain them Using case studies of timber booms in Indonesia Malaysia and the Philippines he shows how windfalls tend to trigger rent seizing activities that may have disastrous consequences for state institutions and for the government of natural resources More generally he shows how institutions can collapse when they have become endogenous to any rent seeking process

Opium to Java James Robert Rush, 2007 Opium smoking was a widespread social custom in nineteenth century Java and commercial trade in opium had far reaching economic and political implications As in many of the Dutch territories in the Indonesian archipelago the drug was imported from elsewhere and sold throughout the island under a government monopoly a system of revenue farms These monopoly franchises were regulated by the government and operated by members of Java's Chinese elite who were frequently also local officials appointed by the Dutch The farms thus helped support large Chinese patronage networks that vied for control of rural markets throughout Java James Rush explains the workings of the opium farm system during its mature years by measuring the social economic and political reach of these monopolies within the Dutch dominated colonial society His analysis of the opium farm incorporates the social history of opium smoking in Java and of the Chinese officer elite that dominated not only the opium farming but also the island's Chinese community and much of its commercial economy He describes the relations among the various classes of Chinese and Javanese as well as the relation of the Chinese elite to the Dutch and he traces the political interplay that smuggling and the black market stimulated among all these elements An important contribution to the social and political history of Southeast Asia and now brought back to life as a member of Equinox Publishing's Classic Indonesia series this book gives a new dimension to our knowledge of nineteenth century Javanese society and the processes of social control and economic dominance during the colonial period JAMES R RUSH is a historian of modern Southeast Asia whose other works include The Last Tree Reclaiming the Environment in Tropical Asia Java A Travellers Anthology and several volumes of contemporary

Asian biography in the Ramon Magsaysay Awards series His is associate professor of history at Arizona State University

Biodiversity II A Joseph Henry Press book,1996-10-16 The book before you carries the urgent warning that we are rapidly altering and destroying the environments that have fostered the diversity of life forms for more than a billion years With those words Edward O Wilson opened the landmark volume Biodiversity National Academy Press 1988 Despite this and other such alarms species continue to vanish at a rapid rate taking with them their genetic legacy and potential benefits Many disappear before they can even be identified Biodiversity II is a renewed call for urgency This volume updates readers on how much we already know and how much remains to be identified scientifically It explores new strategies for quantifying understanding and protecting biodiversity including New approaches to the integration of electronic data including a proposal for a U S National Biodiversity Information Center Application of techniques developed in the human genome project to species identification and classification The Gap Analysis Program of the National Biological Survey which uses layered satellite climatic and biological data to assess distribution and better manage biodiversity The significant contribution of museum collections to identifying and categorizing species which is essential for understanding ecological function and for targeting organisms and regions at risk The book describes our growing understanding of how megacenters of diversity e g rainforest insects coral reefs are formed maintained and lost what can be learned from mounting bird extinctions and how conservation efforts for neotropical primates have fared It also explores ecosystem restoration sustainable development and agricultural impact Biodiversity II reinforces the idea that the conservation of our biological resources is within reach as long as we pool resources better coordinate the efforts of existing institutions museums universities and government agencies already dedicated to this goal and enhance support for research collections and training This volume will be important to environmentalists biologists ecologists educators students and concerned individuals

Shadows in the Forest Peter Dauvergne,1997 This book is the first to analyze the environmental impact of Japanese trade corporations and aid on timber management in the context of Southeast Asian political economies It is also one of the first comprehensive studies of why Southeast Asian states are unable to enforce forest policies and regulations

In Service and Servitude Christine B. N. Chin,1998 Examining how the shared interests of state elites and the middle classes rationalize mistreatment of domestic workers the author argues that the premodern exploitation of migrant domestic workers is at odds with the global expansion of open markets and free trade

Tropical Deforestation Leslie Elmer Sponsel, Thomas N. Headland, Robert Converse Bailey, 1996 The authors present fresh perspectives on the major global crisis of deforestation from a wide range of fields including biological ecology forest history conservation biology anthropology political economy and development economics Third World Political Ecology Sinead Bailey, Raymond Bryant, 2005-08-08 By drawing on examples from throughout the Third World Bryant and Bailey explain the development and characteristics of environmental problems that plague parts of Asia Africa and Latin America and their political and economic bases Environment : Problems and Solutions D K Asthana, 2001 For Degree and Post Graduate Students The Social Dynamics of Deforestation in the Philippines Gerhard van den Top, 2003 This work offers a detailed case study on the dynamics of forest use degradation and loss in Northeast Luzon Philippines Following an interdisciplinary approach the study charts the degradation and loss of forest in this area between 1950 and 1990 as it relates to the social and political context of logging forest migration and changes in upland agriculture Based on ten years of research the author introduces us to the actions livelihood options and motives of all the principal group of actors The Green Tiger Barbara Goldoftas, 2006 The Philippines was once famous for the beauty of its reef ringed islands white beaches and lush forests In less than a half century its forests were felled its oceans over fished and its coral reefs destroyed The rapid harvest of once abundant resources has brought droughts deadly flash floods and the collapse of vital fisheries As the rural economy weakened and millions migrated to cities they overwhelmed the urban infrastructure Today the Philippines stands as an example of the profound and sweeping consequences of ecological decline In The Green Tiger Barbara Goldoftas documents this tragic trajectory But hers is not a story of hopelessness and inevitable defeat In lyrical unflinching prose she traces the struggle for conservation in the Philippines from isolated villages to large cities and in the process illustrates the surprising ways in which conservation and economic growth can effectively co exist The Non-Western World Pradyumna P. Karan, 2004-12-30 This new introductory textbook provides an integrated up to date introduction to the lands people and cultures of the non Western world The Face of the Earth J. Donald Hughes, 2015-05-11 Although the organizing principle of virtually every world history text is development the editor of this volume maintains that this traditional approach fails to address the issue of sustainability By adopting the ecological process as their major theme the authors show how the process of human interaction with the natural environment unfolded in the past and offer perspective on the ecological crises in our world at the beginning of the 21st century Topics range from broad regional studies that examine important aspects of the global environment that affect nations to a study of the widespread influence of one important individual on his nation and beyond The authors take different approaches but all share the conviction that world history must take ecological process seriously and they all recognize the ways in which the living and non living systems of the earth have influenced the course of human affairs World Ecological Degradation Sing C. Chew, 2001-06-06 Deforestation soil runoff salination pollution While recurrent themes of the contemporary world they are not new to us In this broad sweeping review of the environmental impacts of human settlement and development worldwide over the past 5 000 years Sing C Chew shows that these processes are as old as civilization itself With examples ranging from Ancient Mesopotamia to Malaya Mycenaean Greece to Ming China Chew shows that the processes of population growth intensive resource accumulation and urbanization in ancient and modern societies almost universally bring on ecological disaster which often contributes to the decline and fall of that society He then turns his eye to the development of the modern European world system and its impact on the environment Challenging us to change these long term trends Chew also traces the existence of environmental conservation ideas and movements over the span of 5 000 years Can we do it Look at Chew s evidence of the past five millennia and decide Ideal for courses in environmental history anthropology and sociology and world systems theory
