The 'perpetual fair' Anne Wohlcke, 2015-11-01 Each summer a perpetual fair plagued eighteenth century London a city in transition overrun by a burgeoning population City officials attempted to control disorderly urban amusement according to their own gendered understandings of order and morality Frequently derided as locations of dangerous femininity disrupting masculine commerce fairs withstood regulation attempts Fairs were important in the lives of ordinary Londoners as sites of women's work sociability and local and national identity formation Rarely studied as vital to London's modernisation urban fairs are a microcosm of London's transforming society demonstrating how metropolitan changes were popularly contested This study contributes to our understanding of popular culture and modernisation in Britain during the formative years of its global empire Fascinating examples drawn from literary and visual culture make this an engaging study for scholars and students of late Stuart and early Georgian Britain urban and gender history World's Fairs and cultural studies London, Past and Present Henry Benjamin Wheatley, 1891 Based upon the Handbook of London by the late Peter Cunningham A Handbook for London Peter Cunningham, 1849 The Theatre of the London Fairs in the 18th Century, St James's Fair, Bristol, 1137-1837 Joseph Bettey, 2014 Popular Visual Shows 1800-1914 Joe Kember, John Plunkett, 2025-04-23 This book tells the story of the growth of picturegoing as a popular habit between 1800 and 1914 Encouraged by urbanisation and changes in transportation education and leisure patterns the regular and widespread provision of exhibitions and shows became a defining characteristic of cultural life Painted panoramas and dioramas awed with enormous tableaux the stereoscope immersed viewers in a 3D world the many varieties of peepshow promised a marvellously garish experience of patriotic battles gruesome murders and far off places If that was not enough the ever versatile magic lantern projected hundreds of thousands of slides of every imaginable subject from travelogues and temperance tales to illustrated hymns and adaptations of popular fiction Then after 1896 audiences experienced the cinematograph and were able to enjoy film at the many fixed venue cinemas that emerged from around 1908 Moving and projected images were displayed not only in town halls theatres and other large exhibition spaces but also in workhouses schools churches empty shops and fairgrounds Picturegoing in all its variety became a national pastime integrating itself more and more pervasively into the structures of everyday life as the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries progressed Drawing on a wealth of new evidence this book details the shows that were on offer where and what they were the networks and infrastructure they existed within and above all how their audiences experienced them
