Southern Women in the Recent Educational Movement in the South A. D. Mayo, 2001-03-01 Like many other northern clergymen after the Civil War A D Mayo became interested in the role that education could play in rebuilding southern society From 1880 to 1900 he traveled from Virginia to Texas as an educational missionary advocating the new education theories of the 1840s and 1850s In time he came to be considered one of the most perceptive observers of southern education during the period from the end of Reconstruction to the rise of the Redeemer governments in the 1890s Mayo was convinced that the changes in southern society that Reconstruction had failed to bring about could be realized under a sound educational system Learning he believed should be based on individual needs rather than on rote memorization of facts and teachers should be recruited from those trained in the civilizing values In Southern Women Mayo set forth at length the ideas that southern white women were the ideal ones to transmit learning to the young blacks Stressing the greatly expanding role of these women because of the war Mayo saw them as a kind of elite trained in the ideals and culture of the Old South but receptive to the values of the New South In their introduction Dan Carter and Amy

Friedlander place Mayo in the context of nineteenth century intellectual and social currents and provide an interesting perspective on his often surprisingly contemporary sounding ideas on education

ForeWord Solving America's Energy Crisis Kirkpatrick Sale, James Ridgeway, Joseph Persky, Steve Cummings, James Branscome, John Gaventa, Joseph Huges, 1973-09-01 There are some remarkable parallels between the Watergate scandals and the energy crisis the two biggest front page stories in recent months Both are the product of a politics of fear and intimidation a use of power to obscure public issues with scare words like black outs and Black Panthers while stealing Americans blind In the name of law and order the Watergate tricksters nearly stole the government In the name of supply and demand the energy companies would have us finance their attempt to further monopolize the world's energy resources But more of us are seeing through these kinds of tricks On a national level perhaps television has produced a more sophisticated audience one capable of discerning a second rate used car salesman or a fast buck hoax in an instant That's certainly ironic considering the way TV has become the media for presidential campaigning and the oil companies good guy apologies Of course Southerners should have a slight edge in spotting a fraud After all we've had decades of demagogues and statehouse gangs telling us what was best for the little people Not that we've had a monopoly on such corruption Nationally the worst enemies of democracy and free enterprise consistently prove to be those who claim to be those systems protectors Still the South has a special relation to these latest crises And that's what this issue of our journal is all about There is increasing evidence that the cronies and the cash that made Watergate a Nixon policy came from the southern USA Kirkpatrick Sale explores this thought in his analysis of the emerging political clout of what he calls the southern rim
