Daguerreotype Sarah Kate Gillespie, 2016-02-19 The American daguerreotype as something completely new a mechanical invention that produced an image a hybrid of fine art and science and technology The daguerreotype invented in France came to America in 1839 By 1851 this early photographic method had been improved by American daguerreotypists to such a degree that it was often referred to as the American process The daguerreotype now perhaps mostly associated with stiffly posed portraits of serious visaged nineteenth century personages was an extremely detailed photographic image produced though a complicated process involving a copper plate light sensitive chemicals and mercury fumes It was as Sarah Kate Gillespie shows in this generously illustrated history something wholly and remarkably new a product of science and innovative technology that resulted in a visual object It was a hybrid with roots in both fine art and science and it interacted in reciprocally formative ways with fine art science and technology Gillespie maps the evolution of the daguerreotype as medium and as profession from its introduction to the ascendancy of the American process tracing its relationship to other fields and the professionalization of those fields She does so by recounting the activities of a series of American daguerreotypists including fine artists scientists and mechanical tinkerers She describes for example experiments undertaken by Samuel F B Morse as he made the transition from artist to inventor how artists made use of the daguerreotype both borrowing conventions from fine art and establishing new ones for a new medium the use of the daguerreotype in various sciences particularly astronomy and technological innovators who drew on their work in the mechanical arts By the 1860s the daguerreotype had been supplanted by newer technologies Its rise and fall represents an early instance of the ever constant stream of emerging visual technologies Images of the Art Museum Eva-Maria Troelenberg,Melania Savino,2017-02-06 In recent years the emerging field of museum studies has seen rapid expansion in the critical study of museums and scholars started to question the institution and its functions To contribute differentiated viewpoints to the currently evolving meta discourse on the museum this volume aims to investigate how the institution of the museum has been visualized and translated into different kinds of images and how these images have affected our perception of these institutions In this interdisciplinary collection scholars from a variety of academic backgrounds including art history heritage museums studies and architectural history explore a broad range of case studies stretching across the globe The volume opens up debate about the epistemological and historiographical significance of a variety of different images and representations of the Art Museum including the transformation or adaptation of the image of the art museum across periods and cultures In this context this volume aims to develop a new theoretical framework while proposing new methodological tools and resources for the analysis of museological representations on a global scale Art History Through the Camera's Lens Helene E. The Book on the Floor WALTER GRASSKAMP, 2016-12-10 In 1954 the French writer politician and publisher Andr Malraux posed at home for a photographer from the magazine Paris Match surrounded by pages from his forthcoming book Le musée imaginaire de la sculpture mondiale The enchanting metaphor of the musée imaginaire imaginary museum was built upon that illustrated art book and Malraux was one of its greatest champions Drawing on a range of contemporary publications he adopted images and responded to ideas Indeed Malraux s book on the floor is a variation of photographer Andr Vigneau s spectacular Encyclopédie photographique de l'art published in five volumes from 1935 on years before Malraux would enter this field Both authors were engaged in juxtaposing artworks via photographs and publishing these photographs by the hundreds but Malraux was the better sloganeer Starting from a close examination of the photograph of Malraux in his salon art historian Walter Grasskamp takes the reader back to the dawn of this genre of illustrated art book He shows how it catalyzed the practice of comparing works of art on a global scale He retraces the metaphor to earlier reproduction practices and highlights its ubiquity in contemporary art ending with an homage to the other pioneer of the museum without walls the unjustly forgotten Vigneau

Stories from the Camera Michele M. Penhall, 2016-03-15 The remarkable photography collection of the University of New Mexico Art Museum owes its unique character and quality to the directors curators scholars and artists who have taught worked and studied at the museum and in the university's Department of Art and Art History In this indispensable book these distinguished scholars and artists reflect on the pictures from the collection that hold significance to them Through their own professional and artistic practice they represent different generations of aesthetic voices and intellectual directions As one of the earliest collegiate institutions to begin collecting photography the University of New Mexico Art Museum holds a stunning array of images that span photography's 175 year history In addition to iconic works by famous photographers this book also features less familiar but equally masterful pictures Together these essays represent a unique history of photography and this renowned museum

The Place of the Viewer Kerr Houston, 2019-05-07 In recent decades art historians and critics have occasionally emphasized a dynamic embodied mode of looking accenting the role of the viewer and the complex interplay between beholders and works of art In The Place of the Viewer Kerr Houston shows that an attention to the position and physical experiences of beholders has in fact long informed art historical analyses and that close study of the theme can lead to a fuller understanding of the discipline the act of viewership and individual works of art Simultaneously attentive to historical ideas and contemporary scholarship this book identifies a vein of thought that has been generally overlooked and proposes new ways of seeing familiar works and traditions

Burning with Desire Geoffrey Batchen, 1999-03-15 In an 1828 letter to his partner Nicéphore Niépce Louis Daguerre wrote I am burning with desire to see your experiments from nature In this book Geoffrey Batchen analyzes the desire to photograph as it emerged within the philosophical and scientific milieus that preceded the actual invention of photography Recent accounts of photography's identity tend to divide between the postmodern view that all identity is determined by context and a formalist effort to define the fundamental characteristics of photography as a medium Batchen critiques both approaches by way of a detailed discussion of photography's conception in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries He examines the output of the various nominees for first photographer then incorporates this information into a mode of historical criticism informed by the work of Michel Foucault and Jacques Derrida The result is a way of thinking about photography that persuasively accords with the medium's undeniable conceptual political and historical complexity

Sculptural Photographs Patrizia di Bello, 2018-05-03 This is the first monograph exploring how throughout its history sculpture has provided a model to conceptualize photography as an art of mechanical reproduction While there is a growing body of work examining how photography has contributed to the development of a Western sculptural imagination by disseminating works facilitating the investigation of the medium or changing sculptural aesthetics this study focuses on how sculpture has provided not only beautiful and convenient subject matter for photographs or commercial and cultural opportunities for photographers in the market for art reproductions but also an exemplar for thinking about photography as a medium based on mechanical means of production In both media processes from conception to realization involve apparatus that bypass the touch of the artist so important to enduring notions of the value of works of art The book closely analyses a number of case studies from 1847 to the present selected both to explicate the conceptual and technological continuities between the two media and also because of how they illuminate the materiality of photographic objects The final chapter considers the convergence of the two media in contemporary sculptural practices that use forms of 3D photography and computer operated sculpting machines Rooted in an understanding of the practical social and aesthetic implications of photographic as well as sculptural technologies this volume demonstrates how photographs of sculpture are particularly useful in revealing how photography's changing materialities shape the meaning of images as they are made circulated looked at written about and handled at different historical moments Shadow Sites Kitty
