

The wind blew out from Bergen from the dawning to the day,
There was a wreck of trees and fall of towers a score of miles away,
And drifted like a livid leaf I go before its tide,
Spewed out of house and stable, beggared of flag and bride.
The heavens are bowed about my head, shouting like seraph wars,
With rains that might put out the sun and clean the sky of stars,
Rains like the fall of ruined seas from secret worlds above,
The roaring of the rains of God none but the lonely love.
Feast in my hall, O foemen, and eat and drink and drain,
You never loved the sun in heaven as I have loved the rain.

The chance of battle changes -- so may all battle be;
I stole my lady bride from them, they stole her back from me.
I rent her from her red-roofed hall, I rode and saw arise,
More lovely than the living flowers the hatred in her eyes.
She never loved me, never bent, never was less divine;
The sunset never loved me, the wind was never mine.
Was it all nothing that she stood imperial in duress?
Silence itself made softer with the sweeping of her dress.
O you who drain the cup of life, O you who wear the crown,
You never loved a woman's smile as I have loved her frown.

The wind blew out from Bergen to the dawning of the day,
They ride and run with fifty spears to break and bar my way,
I shall not die alone, alone, but kin to all the powers,
As merry as the ancient sun and fighting like the flowers.
How white their steel, how bright their eyes! I love each laughing knave,
Cry high and bid him welcome to the banquet of the brave.
Yea, I will bless them as they bend and love them where they lie,
When on their skulls the sword I swing falls shattering from the sky.
The hour when death is like a light and blood is like a rose,
You never loved your friends, my friends, as I shall love my foes.

Know you what earth shall lose to-night, what rich uncounted loans,
What heavy gold of tales untold you bury with my bones?
My loves in deep dim meadows, my ships that rode at ease,
Ruffling the purple plumage of strange and secret seas.
To see this fair earth as it is to me alone was given,
The blow that breaks my brow to-night shall break the dome of heaven.
The skies I saw, the trees I saw after no eyes shall see,
To-night I die the death of God; the stars shall die with me;
One sound shall sunder all the spears and break the trumpet's breath:
You never laughed in all your life as I shall laugh in death.

Chicorel Index to Poetry in Anthologies and Collections in Print Marietta Chicorel, 1975 Encyclopedia of American Literature of the Sea and Great Lakes Jill B. Gidmark, 2000-11-30 The sea and Great Lakes have inspired American authors from colonial times to the present to produce enduring literary works This reference is a comprehensive survey of American sea literature The scope of the encyclopedia ranges from the earliest printed matter produced in the colonies to contemporary experiments in published prose poetry and drama The book also acknowledges how literature gives rise to adaptations and resonances in music and film and includes coverage of nonliterary topics that have nonetheless shaped American literature of the sea and Great Lakes The alphabetical arrangement of the reference facilitates access to facts about major literary works characters authors themes vessels places and ideas that are central to American sea literature Each of the several hundred entries is written by an expert contributor and many provide bibliographical information While the encyclopedia includes entries for white male canonical writers such as Herman Melville and Jack London it also gives considerable attention to women at sea and to ethnically diverse authors works and themes The volume concludes with a chronology and a list of works for further reading

The Lost Hero Mihir Bose, History abounds with many heroes The Indian freedom struggle had its own share of them Subhas Chandra Bose fired the nation with patriotic fervour very different in character to the non violent approach preached by Gandhi Truly an outsider to the movements of satyagraha and passive resistance that rapidly gained momentum he made a valiant effort to galvanize the nation into action with evocative slogans such as Freedom is never given it is taken Tum mujhe khoon do main tumhe azadi doonga JAI HIND India's national greeting was the salutation coined by him to arouse nationalistic passion among the Indians In what was unthinkable then Bose dared to ally with the Nazis and the Japanese and raised an indigenous army called Azad Hind Fauj to challenge the military might of the British Empire Why then has Subhas Chandra Bose been largely marginalized as a footnote in the history of India's independence Perhaps the mythical legends that continue to shroud both his personal life and political happenstance hold some answers The Lost Hero a thoroughly researched biography of Subhas Bose delves into the life and times of this great man with the hope that he is granted a befitting place in the annals of Indian history
