These Kids Kysa Nygreen, 2013-05-07 Few would deny that getting ahead is a legitimate goal of learning but the phrase implies a cruel hierarchy a student does not simply get ahead but gets ahead of others In These Kids Kysa Nygreen turns a critical eye on this paradox Offering the voices and viewpoints of students at a last chance high school in California she tells the story of students who have in fact been left behind Detailing a youth led participatory action research project that she coordinated Nygreen uncovers deep barriers to educational success that are embedded within educational discourse itself Struggling students internalize descriptions of themselves as at risk low achieving or troubled and by adopting the very language of educators they also adopt its constraints and presumption of failure Showing how current educational discourse does not ultimately provide an adequate vision of change for students at the bottom of the educational hierarchy she levies a powerful argument that social justice in education is impossible today precisely because of how we talk about it Activist Identity Development of Transgender Social Justice Activists and Educators Ksenija Joksimović, 2020-03-02 Activist Identity Development of Transgender Social Justice Activists and Educators introduces an anti oppressive critical and intersectional approach to social justice activism and education and adult education for social change This book examines how state governments laws policies institutions and systems of dominant hegemonic ideologies such as education systems the legal systems and their gatekeepers influence the social position and epistemic agency of transgender and gender non conforming people TGNC therefore shaping their social justice activist and educator identity development The research was conducted with eight TGNC social justice activists and educators from eight different countries who were at the time in leadership positions in organizations working on the advancement of LGBTQI human rights This volume seeks not only to understand and interpret power structures power relations and inequalities in society which determine social positionality of trans activists and influence the formation and development of their activist identity but also to challenge them by raising critical consciousness questioning dominant cultural political and social domains which determine knowledge production It advocates for a trans affirming intersectional approach to educational provision theory and research and DiAngelo's book sings with insight, clarity, and humanity. This is a brilliant primer to help us consider what it means to think critically and to act for justice. Bill Bigelow, Curriculum editor, Rethinking Schools magazine, I commend the direction of this book that addresses concepts such as social and institutional power, socialization, and oppression rather than framing social and political inequality as the consequences of behavioral problems and cultural misunderstandings. The approach the authors have taken supports teachers and their students in rethinking the ways in which the problems of inequality have been normalized as everyday practices. The book will help teachers to rethink inequality in systemic terms and to find opportunities for taking action at any moment. Carol Schick, Associate Professor, Faculty of Education, University of Regina. The most accessible book on social justice I have ever read. The authors speak truth to power and in language we can all understand. I can't wait to use this text. The authors demonstrate that important concepts about social justice and political change can be both understandable and engaging. This is a huge contribution to the field. Mara Sapon-Shevin, Professor, School of Education, Syracuse University. This timely book offers a reader-friendly, unflinching approach to answering those questions on social justice that people are often afraid to ask. The authors provide clear definitions, recognizable examples, robust counterpoints, and thought-provoking activities. All critical educators need to get this text in the hands of their students. Darren E. Lund, Professor, Faculty of Education, University of Calgary. zlem Sensoy is an assistant professor of education at Simon Fraser University, Burnaby, BC, Canada. Robin DiAngelo is an assistant professor of education at Westfield State University, Westfield, Massachusetts.

Educating for Social Justice and Inclusion in an African Context Nithi Muthukrishna, 2008. The proposed book moves away from a special education course, reflecting a broad consideration of social justice and inclusion that encompasses a variety of concerns about the lived experience of domination, oppression, and injustice, and seeks to understand the complex intersections of a number of often overlapping categories of social identity and conflict, including cultural, ethnic, and racialised identities, gender, sexual orientation, class, and disability.
