The Hidden Frontier Ecology And Ethnicity In An Alpine Valley By:

The Hidden Frontier John W. Cole, Eric R. Wolf, 1999-11-16 This award winning classic in the study of ethnicity identity and nation building has a new introduction on which Eric Wolf collaborated near the end of his life that shows the continuing validity of the book's innovative approach to ethnography ecology culture and politics The authors investigated two Alpine villages the German speaking community of St Felix and Romance speaking Tret only a mile apart in the same mountain valley

The Carpathians, the Hutsuls, and Ukraine Anthony J. Amato, 2020-12-02 This book examines the relationship between Ukraine's Galician Hutsuls and the Carpathian landscape between 1848 and 1939 The author analyzes the intersections of ecology and culture in the history of the Carpathian Mountains with a focus on the region's economy and biodiversity

Household and Family in the Balkans Karl Kaser, 2012 On the occasion of the 20th anniversary of the foundation of the Balkan Family History Project at the University of Graz in 1993 this volume unites the most outstanding essays by the project members that have appeared over the course of the previous two decades scattered in various journals and books These essays cover the interval from the 19th to the 21st century and reflect the current status of Balkan family research in historical anthropological and demographical perspectives Series Studies on South East Europe Vol 13

The Anthropology of Climate Change Hans Baer, Merrill Singer, 2014-04-24 In addressing the urgent questions raised by climate change this book provides a comprehensive overview of the anthropology of climate change guided by a critical political ecological framework It argues that anthropologists must significantly expand their focus on climate change and their contributions to responding to climate change as a grave risk to humanity The book presents a human socioecological framework for conceptualizing climate change It examines the emergence and slow maturation of the anthropology of climate change reviews the historic foundations for this work in the archaeology of climate change and presents three alternative contemporary theoretical perspectives in the anthropology of climate change The book synthesizes anthropological work and perspectives on climate change in the form of case studies in various regions of the world revealing the nature of global climate change as constituting multiple and somewhat diverse changes in local settings It explores the applied anthropology of climate change in terms of the ways anthropologists are contributing to climate policy working with communities on climate change issues as well as within the climate movement both internationally and nationally Finally it provides an overview of what other the social sciences are saying about climate change and explores ways that the anthropology of climate change can interface with sociology political science and human geography in order to create an integrated social science of climate change This book gives researchers and students in Environmental Anthropology Climate Change Human Geography and Sociology a novel framework for understanding climate change that emphasizes human socioecological interactions

Mountainscapes Andrea Boscoboinik, Viviane Cretton, 2025-09-01 Often home to rural indigenous communities mountain regions are rapidly becoming preserves for the social elite and altogether unsustainable within the climate crisis Bringing together scholars from geography sociology anthropology history and urban studies Mountainscapes seeks to re examine the dynamics of mountain mobilities and better understand how tourism migration and pastoralism impacts mountain communities Ranging from the Swiss Alps to the Chilean Andes this volume illuminates how the processes of place making and non belonging specifically manifest and evolve within our ever changing mountain regions

People of the Iberian Borderlands David Martín Marcos,2022-09-02 This book is devoted to the inhabitants of the Spanish Portuguese borderlands during the early modern period It seeks to challenge a predominant historiography focused on the study of borderlands societies relying exclusively on the antagonistic topics of subversion and the construction of boundaries It states that by focusing just on one concept or another there is a restrictive understanding tending to condition the agency of local communities by external narratives Thus if traditionally border people were reduced by some scholars to actors of a struggle against a supposedly imposed border in a more modern perspective their behaviors have been also framed in bottom up processes of consolidation of spaces of sovereignty in a no less limiting vision Faced with both approaches the objective of this work is not to deny them but first and foremost to situate the experiences of border populations outside of logics that I understand as originally alien to themselves and to highlight their own subjectivity Finally it also demonstrates that most of the practices developed by border people were fundamentally aimed at defending their local communities It will be useful for both audiences interested in early modern Iberia or border studies from a bottom up perspective

The Shephelah during the Iron Age Oded Lipschits,Aren M. Maeir,2017-03-24 The area of the Judean Foothills the biblical Shephelah has in recent years become one of the most intensively excavated regions in the world Numerous projects at sites of different types and utilizing various methodological approaches are actively excavating in this region Of particular importance are the discoveries dating to the Iron Age a period when this region was a transition zone between various cultures Philistine Canaanite Judahite and Israelite The current volume includes reports from eight of the excavations currently being conducted in the region Azekah Beth Shemesh Gezer Khirbet Qeiyafa Tel Burna Tel Halif Tell es Safi Gath and Tel Zayit as well as a general study of the region by Ido Koch The importance of this volume lies not only in the fact that it collects up to date reports on most of the current excavations in the region but also demonstrates the lively at times even boisterous scholarly discussions taking place on various issues relating to the archaeology and history of the Iron Age Shephelah and its immediate environs This volume serves as an excellent introduction to current research on the Iron Age in this crucial zone and also serves as a reflection of current trends methodologies and approaches in the archaeology of the Southern Levant

Between Frontiers Noboru Ishikawa,2010-03-15 A staple of postwar academic writing nationalism is a contentious and often unanalyzed abstraction It is generally treated as something imagined fashioned and disseminated as an idea located in the mind in printed matter on maps in symbols such as flags and anthems and in collective memory Between Frontiers restores the nation to the social field from which it has been abstracted by looking at how the concept shapes the existence of people in border zones where they live between nations Noboru Ishikawa grounds his discussion of border zones in materials gathered during two years of archival research and fieldwork relating to the boundary that separates Malaysian from Indonesian territory in western Borneo His book considers how the state maintains its national space and how people strategically situate themselves by their community nation and ethnic group designated as national territory Examining these issues in the context of concrete circumstances where a village boundary coincides with a national border allows him to delineate the dialectical relationship between nation state and borderland society both as history and as process Scholars across the humanities and social sciences will learn from this masterful linking of history and ethnography and of macro and micro perspectives

Border Encounters Jutta Lauth Bacas, William Kavanagh, 2013-10-01 Among the tremendous changes affecting Europe in recent decades those concerning political frontiers have been some of the most significant International borders are being opened in some regions while being redefined or reinforced in others The social relationships of those living in these borderland regions are also changing fundamentally This volume investigates from a local ground up perspective what is happening at some of these border encounters face to face interactions and relations of compliance and confrontation where people are bargaining exchanging goods and information and maneuvering beyond state boundaries Anthropological case studies from a number of European borderlands shed light on the questions of how and to what extent the border context influences the changing interactions and social relationships between people at a political frontier

The Spatial and Economic Transformation of Mountain Regions Manfred Perlik, 2019-01-03 Mountain regions are subject to a unique set of economic pressures they act as collective enterprises which have to valorize rare resources such as spectacular landscapes While primarily rural in nature they often border large cities and the development of industries such as hydroelectric power and the rapid development of tourism can bring about sweeping socio economic change and vast demographic alterations The Spatial and Economic Transformation of Mountain Regions describes the socio economic changes and spatial impacts of the last four decades with the transformation of mountain areas held up as an example Much of the real world context draws on the Alps spanning as they do the significant economies of France Italy Germany Switzerland and Austria Chapters address academic discourse on regional development in these mountain areas and suggest alternative approaches to the liberal productivist societal model This book will be essential reading for professionals institutions and NGOs searching for counter models to the existing marketing approaches for peripheral areas It will also be of interest to students of regional development economic geography environmental studies and industrial economics
