Reid, 1990-12-11 Difficulties in motor behavior are commonly associated with a variety of disabilities Early research efforts focused on descriptions of specific groups of people or on evaluations of intervention programs Only recently have investigators begun to explore questions from a variety of theoretical positions in an attempt to build a more fundamental understanding of the disabled person The present volume represents views of major methodological issues current research fronts and selected applied concerns from the perspective of the disabled performer Authors write from a number of theoretical viewpoints and sketch future research directions in these chapters

Growing Up in a Changing Society Ronnie Carr, Paul Light, Martin

Woodhead,2014-02-04 The final reader in the Child Development in Social Context series shows how the study of child development is inevitably bound up in more ephemeral cultural ideas about the nature and needs of children and in the educational practices that rise from these ideas Some readings point to the dangers which can arise from the meeting of science and cultural values using for illustration studies of the role of psychological theory in reinforcing social attitudes to child care inside and outside the family Other readings look at children s initiation into that relatively recent cultural invention the school and the relationship with their learning at home There are studies of their social development in classroom and playground with particular emphasis on ethnic relationships Current Issues in English Language Methodology Eva Alcón Soler,1998 An interesting contribution to the discussed task of adopting an effective methodology in the teaching of English as a foreign language Aspects such as the application of a cognitive theory the usage of electronic mail in the classroom the making of informative glossaries take that question again and new proposals are actualised

Progress in Education R. Nata,2003 This series presents substantial results from around the globe in selected areas of educational research The field of education is consistently on the top of priority lists of every country in the world yet few educators are aware of the progress elsewhere Many techniques programs and methods are directly applicable across borders This series attempts to shed light on successes wherever they may occur in the hope that many wheels need not be reinvented again and again Effective Classroom Practice Alison Kington,Pam Sammons,Eleanor Brown,Elaine Regan,James Ko,Scott Buckler,2014-10-16 Effective Classroom Practice is an original and highly relevant book with unique messages relating to teaching quality and teacher standards Providing rigorous evidence and rich insights into teachers practices the authors identify important features of effective classroom practice including for example interactions with students the role of feedback the learning climate positive relationships planning and meeting student needs Moreover they explore a number of important influences on classroom practice and teachers work in terms of career phase teacher identity self efficacy and role of school support This in turn provides powerful evidence of the contextual complexities of teachers classroom practice The book further highlights the role of core classroom competencies in terms of organization and management pedagogical context knowledge innovative pedagogical skills and interpersonal qualities It also shows that these can be enacted differently by teachers in different sectors year groups subject groups and socio economic contexts This research evidence awarded an outstanding grade by the Economic and Social Research Council confirms that the concept of an effective teacher is a complex one Innovative and unique Effective Classroom Practice offers a detailed and holistic understanding of the influences that shape teacher effectiveness making it a significant text for teachers school leaders researchers teacher educators and policy makers Self-Esteem and Foreign Language Learning Fernando Rubio,2021-02-19 Self Esteem and Foreign Language Learning deals with a topic which has been given surprisingly little attention in Second and Foreign Language Acquisition studies Although there are several studies dealing with general education this volume addresses the need to take self esteem into consideration in the language classroom and adopts both theoretical research and practical perspectives with the hope of being useful for both researchers and practitioners The book is organized into three main parts Part I serves as an introduction to self esteem Part II reports on the existing literature about the theory and research dealing with self esteem and foreign language learning and Part III includes procedures for implementation and activities for classroom applications Self Esteem and Foreign Language Learning is edited by Fernando Rubio PhD a researcher and teacher at the University of Huelva in Spain Most of the chapters have been written by members of the research group Affective factors in language learning which has also published a book on Multiple Intelligences and the teaching of English Dr Jane Arnold Dr Carmen Fonseca etc There are two outside contributions one is by Andrew Wright author of numerous publications for language teachers and the other by Veronica de Andr s teacher trainer from the University of El Salvador Argentina and member of the executive board of the International Council for Self Esteem Dr Elaine Horwitz of the University of Texas has contributed a preface

Gender, Interaction, and Inequality Cecilia L. Ridgeway, 2013-03-09 Causal explanations are essential for theory building In focusing on causal mechanisms rather than descriptive effects the goal of this volume is to increase our theoretical understanding of the way gender operates in interaction Theoretical analyses of gender s effects in interaction in turn are necessary to understand how such effects might be implicated with individual level and social structural level processes in the larger system of gender inequality Despite other differences the contributors to this book all take what might be loosely called a microstructural approach to gender and interaction All agree that individuals come to interaction with certain common socially created beliefs cultural meanings experiences and social rules These include stereotypes about gendered activities and skills beliefs about the status value of gender rules for interacting in certain settings and so on However as individuals apply these beliefs and rules to the specific contingent events of interaction they combine and reshape their implications in distinctive ways that are particular to the encounter As a result individuals actively construct their social relations in the encounter through their interaction The patterns of relations that develop are not completely determined or scripted in advance by the beliefs and rules of the larger society Consequently there is a reciprocal causal relationship between constructed patterns of interaction and larger social structural forms The constructed patterns of social relations among a set of interactants can be thought of as micro level social structures or more simply microstructures
