Socialist City Spatial Structure And Urban Policy

Socialist City Spatial Structure And Urban Policy:

The Socialist City Richard Antony French, Frederick Edwin Ian Hamilton, 1993 The Post-Socialist City Kiril Stanilov, 2007-08-13 In the large body of literature produced during the last fifteen years on the transformation of Eastern European societies after the fall of communism studies investigating changes in urban form and structure have been quite rare Yet a profound reorganization of the manner in which urban space is appropriated has taken place impacting the life of over 200 million urban residents in the region The patterns of spatial organization which have been established during this fairly limited but critical timeframe are likely to set the direction of future urban development in CEE cities for a long time This book focuses on the spatial transformations in the most dynamically evolving urban areas of post socialist Central and Eastern Europe linking the restructuring of the built environment with the underlying processes and forces of socio economic reforms We hope that the detailed accounts of the spatial transformations in a key moment of urban history in the region will enhance our understanding of the linkages between society and space adding to the knowledge that is needed for resolving the difficult challenges facing cities throughout the globe in the beginning of the twenty first century Soviet Housing and Urban Design Steven A. Grant, 1980 Recent reforms in the Soviet housing construction process Soviet building design and construction Urban forms and infrastructure in the Soviet Union U S S R practices in heat and power supply Micro aspects of housing demand in Soviet cities Building materials and components Housing in Central Asia the Uzbek example Construction in seismic areas Soviet construction under difficult climatic conditions The political economy of Soviet new towns Reflections on the planning of old and new cities in the U S S R The Vietnamese City in Transition Patrick Gubry, Frank Castiglioni, Jean-Michel Cusset, Nguyen Thi Thieng, Pham Thuy Huong, 2010 Since the Doi Moi policy of economic renovation was introduced in 1986 Vietnam has undergone deep transformations as a result of the transition to a socialist oriented market economy Social and urban transition has taken place in parallel as urban dynamics were spurred on by Vietnamese public and private stakeholders and by external agents such as international organizations and international solidarity organizations experts consultants and bilateral aid organizations Here are the results of research carried out by French Canadian and Vietnamese teams from the north and south of the country on the overarching theme of Vietnamese cities in transition Some of this research deals with urban dynamics some with the issues at stake within such dynamics or with the strategies of the most significant stakeholders in urban transition civil society donors within the framework of official aid for development consultants and international consultancy firms These projects were carried out between 2001 and 2004 as part of the Urban Research Programme for Development PRUD and mainly focus on Hanoi and Ho Chi Minh City or both in the case of comparative studies Is there such a thing as a Vietnamese model of an Asian city It seems that urban transition in Vietnam is not taking place in as radical and abrupt a manner as in China The country s capacity for absorbing external models the quest for a third way between state intervention and economic liberalism and the fact that the country s architectural heritage is taken into account in urban planning are just some of the reasons for its particularity The issues addressed in each chapter as well as the proposals for further research suggested by the contributors should act as a catalyst for urban research in Vietnam

Transformation of Cities in Central and Eastern Europe F. E. Ian Hamilton, Kaliopa Dimitrovska Andrews, Nataša Pichler-Milanović, 2005 Annotation This volume is one in a series initiated by the United Nations University Institute of Advanced Studies on the inter relationship between globalisation and urban transformation It identifies and describes the inter and intra urban transformations of Central and Eastern European cities and considers their pre 1945 historic legacies the socialist period and their contemporary transition towards market oriented and democratic systems The dramatic changes since 1989 including the collapse of Communist ideology the break up of the Soviet Union Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia the end of the Cold War and the impact of globalisation and European integration have reconfigured this region and affected their re integration into European and global networks This book first examines the similarities and differences between significant Central and Eastern European cities comparing the differing patterns of historical context and socialist legacies before 1990 and the impacts of internal and external forces on re shaping these cities and their paths of transformation since 1990 It also examines the role of contemporary planning within the overall development of Central and Eastern European cities The conclusion demonstrates the similarities and differences between Central and Eastern European cities and their re integration into global networks

Handbook of Urban Segregation Sako Musterd, 2020-03-28 The Handbook of Urban Segregation scrutinises key debates on spatial inequality in cities across the globe It engages with multiple domains including residential places public spaces and the field of education In addition it tackles crucial group dimensions across race class and culture as well as age groups the urban rich middle class and gentrified households This timely Handbook provides a key contribution to understanding what urban segregation is about why it has developed what its consequences are and how it is measured conceptualised and framed

Residential Change and Demographic Challenge Annett Steinführer, Sigrun Kabisch, Katrin Grossmann, 2016-04-08 Going beyond the assumption that East Central European cities are still in transition this book draws on the postsocialism paradigm to ask new questions about the impact of demographic change on residential developments in this region Focussing on four second order cities in this region it examines Gdansk and Łódź in Poland and Brno and Ostrava in the Czech Republic as examples and deals with the nexus between urban development and demographic change for the context of East Central European cities It provides a framework for linking urban and demographic research It discusses how residential areas and urban developments cope with changes in population development household types and different forms of in and out migration and goes on to explore parallels and differences in comparison with broader European patterns This book will be useful to academics of urban planning and development especially in transition areas Central and Eastern European studies demographics and population studies and sociology social exclusion

Metropolis 2000 Thomas Angotti, 2018-05-30 Originally published in 1993

Metropolis 2000 analyses 20th century metropolitan development and planning under the economic and environmental conditions of the world's regions. Attempts to achieve the physical integration of the city without economic equality have failed. The book advances the principle of integrated diversity which emphasises linking neighbourhood planning with a broader vision of the planned metropolis and applies a political economy approach and argues for a new form of pro urban thinking. The book argues that the basis for a humane approach to city planning is viewing the metropolis as a beneficial accompaniment to national independence, equality and social progress.

Confronting Suburbanization Kiril

Stanilov, Luděk Sýkora, 2014-11-04 This fascinating book explains the processes of suburbanization in the context of post socialist societies transitioning from one system of socio spatial order to another. Case studies of seven Central and Eastern Europe city regions illuminate growth patterns and key conditions for the emergence of sprawl. Breaks new ground offering a systematic approach to the analysis of the global phenomenon of suburbanization in a post socialist context. Tracks the boom of the post socialist suburbs in seven CEE capital city regions: Budapest, Ljubljana, Moscow, Prague, Sofia, Tallinn and Warsaw. Situates the experience of the CEE countries in the broader context of global urban change. Case studies examine the phenomenon of suburbanization along four main vectors of analysis: related to development patterns, driving forces, consequences and impacts, and management of suburbanization. Highlights the critical importance of public policies and planning on the spread of suburbanization.

The Urban Transformation of Sarajevo Jordi Martín-Díaz, 2021-08-10 Following the signing of the peace agreement and the end of three and a half years of siege, Sarajevo simultaneously experienced a double transition from war to peace and from socialism to capitalism that was marked by an increasing international intervention. This book presents a study of the urban transformation of Sarajevo during the post war period and considers both the role and the impact of the international community in its spatial and ethnic configuration. Part I focuses on the period of maximum international involvement developed at local level from December 1995 until 2003 and comprises chapters on the ethno territorial division of the city, the reconstruction of its ethnic diversity and the liberal transition fostered and imposed internationally. Part II deals with the impact of these policies on the current spatial functional and ethnic configuration in the area of Sarajevo.
